The Outlook Precedent Provides Pathway For Lions' Return To Power

Is Penn State, for so long the rock of Eastern football, beginning to show some cracks?

Some would suspect it based on the Nittany Lions' uncharacteristic 10 losses in the last two seasons, nine in the regular-season and one in the 1988 Citrus Bowl to Atlantic Coast Conference champion Clemson.

Coach Joe Paterno is the first to admit that maintaining a peerless reputation in today's major college football climate is difficult. But, Paterno always has managed to turn adversity into an asset, never letting the Lions take more than a catnap in their pursuit of national attention.

Earlier this decade, Penn State had a couple of flat seasons back-to-back in 1983-84. The Nittany Lions of those years won 14, lost nine and tied one. Paterno recharged the batteries and Penn State played for the National Championship in both 1985 and 1986, while winning 23 of 24 games. Penn State was No. 1 in 1986, defeating unbeaten Miami [Fla.], 14-10, in a memorable Fiesta Bowl battle for the national title.

Paterno isn't forecasting any herculean achievements for his 1989 team, but, based on spring practice, he expects improvement despite the presence of just 14 seniors among the top 44 players on offense and defense.

"I told the squad as we approached

spring practice that I thought we had a lot of fine young athletes, but I didn't think we had a lot of fine football players. We tried to challenge the kids to make themselves better football players. We probably have more fine athletes on this team than any I've been associated with here. What we have to do is translate potential into production," Paterno said.

The Nittany Lions have 39 lettermen returning from the 1988 team that finished 5-6, including 14 players who started in the finale at Notre Dame. Twenty-two lettermen are lost, eight of them starters.

There is cause for optimism with the return of many of last year's statistical leaders, including four of the top five rushers, the two leading passers, three of the top four receivers, the leading kick-off returner, the three leading scorers, the top punter, four of the first five ranking players in total offense, the top two interceptors and the four leading tacklers.

Another positive omen is the anticipated return of tailback Blair Thomas, a third-team All-American and one of the nation's Top 10 rushing leaders as a junior in 1987. A major knee injury in December of 1987 put Thomas on the shelf for all of last year. In 1987, Thomas represented 59.4 percent of the Penn State rushing attack and, without him, the 1988 Nittany Lions were more than 500 yards short of their level of a year earlier.

"Blair did everything this spring except get tackled," Paterno said. "I didn't think there was any sense in exposing him to contact.

"I know what he can do. He did all of the blocking drills, pass protection drills, ball-handling drills, agility drills, all of the pass work, everything the other backs did except scrimmage.

"We will get him in a couple of workouts in the preseason and he will be OK. He looks as if he is 100 percent, but you never know until he gets banged around a little. Obviously, Blair's return is going to be significant because of his offensive contribution, but he adds to our intangibles as well."

Elected offensive captain by his teammates at the end of spring practice, Thomas has an exceptional work ethic, exemplified by his gutty and resolute determination to rehabilitate his injured knee.

"I feel I need another year to perform up to my capabilities and show that once you've had an injury like this you can come back and play the way you did before the injury," Thomas said at the time he announced his intention to return for his final year of eligibility.

As a junior, a healthy Thomas sent his stock soaring with numbers that included a record 1,772 all-purpose yards and 1,414 yards rushing — the third-best total in Penn State history. He ranked No. 8 among Division 1-A ground-gainers with an average of 161.09 yards per game.

"Blair is a very committed young man," Paterno continued. "We have not had a player in my 40 years on campus who works any harder, practices any harder, is more committed, more loyal and better liked than Blair Thomas. He is a great example for the young backs who thought they knew what 100 percent was; after watching Blair, they understand 100 percent is something else."

The last time he played in a game, Thomas gained a personal-high 214 yards (on 35 carries) against Notre Dame. For the 1987 season, he averaged 5.3 yards per carry and racked up 13 touchdowns. He presently is ranked No. 11 on the Lions' list of all-time ground-gainers with 1.960 yards.

With Thomas unavailable, five different backs had significant rushing numbers last year, four of whom are back in 1989. Sophomores Gary Brown and Leroy Thompson ranked 1-2 with 689 and 401 yards, respectively. Fullback John Greene, who has graduated, was No. 3 with 342 yards, followed by Sean Redman [232] and Sam Gash (110).

The return of Thomas, the departure of Greene, and questions about Gash's health (he missed the spring with a wrist injury) triggered the move of Brown from tailback to fullback during spring practice, an experiment that will be carefully watched in the preseason.

Leroy Thompson

Tony Sacca

"The move of Gary Brown to fullback was a good one," Paterno said. "I think Gary can be a fine fullback. Gary is strong and could play at 210-212 pounds without any trouble. He is a compact kid. Gary is too good a football player to sit behind anyone."

Brown will battle with Gash and sophomore John Gerak for the starting job. A succession of injuries during his first two seasons has impeded the development of Gash, a junior. He has an instinct for the end zone, scoring seven touchdowns on only 35 rushing attempts last fall.

Gerak is the biggest of the fullback candidates at 6-5 and more than 240 pounds. He, too, missed some of the spring with injuries, but the coaching staff likes his size and his maneuverability. Bob Daman, a redshirt sophomore who had a solid performance in the spring game, is another fullback candidate of note.

Joining Thomas in the tailback picture is Thompson, a junior with two modestly productive seasons behind him. Thompson looked sharp in the Blue-White game with a 6.5-yard rushing average on 13 carries, a touchdown and a couple of pass receptions. He gained nearly 1,000 yards in 1987-88 as a rusher [458] and returner [509].

Quarterback Tom Bill and Center Roger Duffy

Bill, fully recovered from the knee injury that sidelined him for eight games last fall, is expected to duel for the starting quarterback berth. "The quarterback has to have the attitude that we're going to do it, to give everybody else that same attitude," Bill says. Joe Paterno says Duffy "may be the best center we've ever had."

"Leroy is a much better back now than he was," Paterno said. "He is not wasting yards and has worked hard on his blocking. He has also caught the ball very well."

One of the big surprises of the spring was tailback Gerry Collins, the younger brother of defensive standout Andre Collins. A transfer from Colorado State, Gerry was the offensive star of the Blue-White game with 142 yards on 21 carries and two touchdowns.

Another Blue-White revelation was Bobby Samuels, a redshirt sophomore. He had 53 rushing yards and 56 yards on kickoff returns in the spring game.

"Gerry and Bobby are both explosive players with outstanding potential," Paterno said.

Two-time letterman Sean Redman, who missed spring ball with a toe injury, is expected back in the fall to round out a promising picture at tailback. Redman's 5.8-yard average a year ago was the best of any running back who had 20 or more carries.

When preseason practice convenes, primary attention will be focused on a tight battle at quarterback. Tom Bill and Tony Sacca, both of whom had the job at different times last fall, are neck-and-neck for the regular assignment.

Bill started the first three games before dislocating a kneecap against Rutgers and the job became Sacca's. A "true" freshman, Sacca drew praise for his performance in the big-league pressure cooker.

"I thought he (Tony) did a super job for a kid we didn't spend a lot of time with (in the 1988 preseason) because we never expected he would have to play," Paterno said.

"Sacca improved tremendously this spring. He has to learn to get rid of the football, not take the sack, and I think he's getting better. He is improving his 'reads' and we were pleased with his ball-handling when we had the chance to work with him."

Bill, who looked razor-sharp in the 1988 opener at Virginia, participated fully in spring drills, showing no ill effects from his injury of last September.

"Tom obviously has had more experience," Paterno reported. "He is a junior in eligibility, but this is his fourth year in the program. He is more consistent. He has a better grasp of the offense. He has a bit more assuredness, is more decisive when he reads coverages, which you would expect based on his exposure to the offense."

Another quarterback prospect of note is redshirt sophomore Matt Nardolillo, like Sacca a product of the New Jersey high school ranks. Nardolillo shared first-team all-state honors with Sacca, but spent 1988 on the foreign team.

"Matt is a fine prospect. He's smart, has a good feel for things and is a good team leader," Paterno said. "He doesn't yet have quite the arm strength he needs, but that will come as he matures."

If Doug Sieg can return from back woes, the Lions will have additional depth at the quarterback slot. Sieg has a lot of athletic skills, but has had to endure a career's worth of injury problems in two previous seasons.

The pass offense will be without leading receiver Michael Timpson [22 catches, 342 yards], who departed with a redshirt season of eligibility remaining to pursue a career in the National Football League.

Redshirt junior Dave Daniels, the most experienced of the returnees, had an outstanding 20.1 average on 16 catches a year ago. Daniels has good speed and a "big-play personality" that was on display with crucial catches against Rutgers [38 yards for a TD on the final play of the first half] and Maryland [45 yards for the longgainer in the winning TD drive] last fall.

Redshirt junior Terry Smith and sophomore O.J. McDuffie have shown flashes of unique skills. Smith tied Kenny Jackson's game record for receptions with four at West Virginia last October. McDuffie, a coveted Ohio high school standout, had four catches [42 yards] in limited duty last fall.

Joe Markiewicz, son of a former Penn State player, also figures in the scheme at wide receiver. While the senior hasn't made any receptions, he has played in a number of games over the past two seasons.

"This is a relatively young group that I think, eventually, will be good," Paterno said. "We were able to work with them this spring on some coverages and to make measured progress. They can do some things now that are more sophisticated than we did with them a year ago. Potentially, they will be fine."

Tight end appears well staffed with the return of senior Dave Jakob, the No. 2 receiver of a year ago with 20 catches for 274 yards. Jakob was the only team member to catch a pass in every 1988 game. Todd Young, another senior, began to come into his own last fall when he made three starts and caught three passes for 60 yards, including one for a TD.

Kevin O'Keeffe is another experienced tight end. Al Golden, moved over from defense during spring practice, made a positive impression with his blocking and receiving talents. Redshirt sophomore Rudy Glocker missed much of the spring with a finger injury, but promises to be more of a factor as he matures and increases his participation.

Center Roger Duffy is the anchor of an offensive line that suffers one of the heaviest losses — two-time All-America guard Steve Wisniewski. In addition to Duffy, who played more downs (almost 800) than anyone else, short tackle Tim Freeman and guard Ed Monaghan have starting experience. Guard Sean Love and tackle Matt McCartin played enough to win letters in 1988.

The line will benefit from the return of Dave Szott, back in the long guard spot after a couple of years on defense. Szott is a big man [6-4, 250] who plays all-out.

Others who will attempt to win favor include: centers Rob Luedeke, the most improved offensive player during spring ball, and Dave Brzenchek; tackles Mac Gallagher, Paul Siever, Pat Duffy, Brian Dozier, Greg Huntington and E.J. Sandusky; and guards Jerrod Vance and Sean Moffitt. The unit would get an additional lift if Mike Flanagan, idled for two seasons by injuries, is healthy again. Flanagan missed all of the spring with a shoulder problem.

"We are going to have a young offensive line, particularly with the addition of Szott, who has spent the last two years on defense," Paterno said. "We spent a lot of time with the offensive line during the spring to try and improve its cohesion. To a large degree, I think we accomplished that.

"Roger Duffy, the most experienced player on the offensive line, is an outstanding football player. He may be the best center we've had here," Paterno added.

Last year's offense struggled, averaging just 21 points and 324 yards per game. In the final three games, Penn State scored an anemic 20 points.

"The whole offense should be better because of experience," Paterno said. "We should be better without Blair. Add Blair and you're looking for a big improvement."

Penn State's defense, which has been a cornerstone of the Nittany Lions' success, had the look of a teenagers' dorm room during spring drills. Things were not precisely where they belonged. For instance, Brian Chizmar, a two-year starter at hero, was at outside linebacker. Sherrod Rainge, a regular on the corner last fall, was at safety and Jim Deter was shifted from defensive tackle to the nose. Some of the moves were planned, others were triggered by a cloudburst of injuries that blew through the linebacker ranks with particular force.

Inside linebacker Andre Collins

"I think Andre Collins is a great player. Andre's as good an inside line-backer as there is in America this year. He's a complete football player — smart, tough, a great leader and an emotional player." — Joe Paterno.

Andre Powell, a two-year letterman who was ticketed to return to outside linebacker this spring, and promising redshirt sophomore Tom Wade both were felled by major knee injuries that will force them to miss the 1989 campaign. Outside linebackers Matt Baggett [shoulder], Ivory Gethers [knee] and inside linebacker Scott Gob [shoulder] never even got on the field due to continuing rehabilitation of 1988 afflictions.

Like Powell and Wade, some who started the spring healthy wound up ailing. Neil Hamilton, a fifth-year outside linebacker, suffered torn ligaments in a finger and defensive back Mark Graham a dislocated shoulder.

"It was a tough spring from an injury standpoint," Paterno said. "We were short six linebackers at one point, which forced us to make some major adjustments."

No adjustment was necessary at inside linebacker, however, where the Nittany Lions boast one of the nation's preeminent defensive players — senior Andre Collins. Moved from safety to linebacker in the spring of 1988, Collins finished last season with 110 tackles, the best season total for a Penn State defender in 13 years.

"I think Andre Collins is a great player," Paterno said. "Andre's as good an inside linebacker as there is in America this year. He runs well and he's a complete football player — smart, tough, a great leader and an emotional player. I think Andre is probably as good a linebacker as we have had around here."

Collins, a defensive co-captain with Brian Chizmar, had 13 tackles in two different games last fall [Syracuse and Notre Dame]. In the Blue-White game, he was a defensive terror, recording 12 tackles [10 solo], defending a pass and recovering a fumble.

Fifth-year senior Scott Gob, who started beside Collins in 1988, spent the spring as a spectator due to shoulder problems, giving Mark D'Onofrio and Jeff Anderson an opportunity for extra work. D'Onofrio won his first letter a year ago, appearing in 10 games as a backup linebacker and participating in 36 tackles. Anderson celebrated the end of an 18-month recovery from a broken leg by enjoying an injury-free spring. He and D'Onofrio both figure to make significant contributions to the defense in 1989.

"Schonewolf is a good tackle, a fine player. Rich was the best defensive tackle out there [during spring ball] and really gave our offensive linemen a tough time." — Joe Paterno.

Hamilton, who played outside last year, is the projected backup to Collins with Brett Wright and Rick Sayles, both redshirt sophomores in reserve.

Chizmar, Penn State's newest outside linebacker, was a second-team Associated Press All-East choice a year ago when he finished as the Lions' No. 3 tackler, despite missing all of two games and parts of two others with a knee sprain. The starting hero back in both 1987-88, Chizmar enters the campaign with more career tackles than any member of the defense.

"Whether we can afford to keep Brian at outside linebacker will depend on how some of the young people come through at the hero spot. Paterno said.

Redshirt senior Geoff Japohen played in all 11 games last fall, experience that will be valuable in his pursuit of a starting Scott Gob role. Keith Goganious had an impressive first season in 1988 and will press Japchen as will Baggett when he's healthy again. John Wolfe, who moved over from tight end to ease the injury crisis at outside linebacker. is penciled in as the Frank Giannetti backup to Chizman with Ron Fields and Gethers, once he's healthy, as other notable contestants.

Tackle Rich Schonewolf, who topped all defensive linemen with 42 tackles in 1988, is the dominant personality on the defensive line. A three-time letterman, Schonewolf played 609 downs last fall, a mark topped by only three other defenders.

"I think Rich has a chance to be an outstanding defensive tackle," Paterno says. "He moves exceptionally well for a man his size."

After Schonewolf, the remaining spots on the defensive line are up for grabs. Based on spring practice, Jim Deter (nose) and Frank Giannetti (tackle) appear to be the leaders, but the positions are anything but uncontested. Jorge Oguendo made a move on Deter during spring ball, when he was selected as the most improved defensive player.

Eric Renkey, a sophomore who was the No. 2 nose man as a freshman, spent part of the spring beefing up his academic performance and will certainly be a factor in the fall. Newcomers Todd Burger, Tony Matesic and Todd Rucci also figure in the mix.

Deter got into 10 games and registered nine tackles in 1988 as an outside rusher. He is new to nose tackle, but has plenty of toughness, one of the prerequisites of the position. Giannetti got his chance to start when Bob Mrosko was hurt last fall and left a very favorable impression. He had 29 tackles and 21/2 quarterback sacks.

Willie Thomas

Rainge, in a new position, and Willie Thomas are the returning starters in the projected defensive secondary. A fifth-year senior. Rainge started every game at right corner in 1988 and was the No. 2 tackler in the secondary in addition to leading the team with three interceptions. He moves into Eddie Johnson's old position at safety. Thomas, a two-time letterman, has logged nearly 750 plays in two seasons as a reserve and starting cornerback.

Redshirt junior Darren Perry waged a hot battle with sophomore Chris Cisar for the hero assignment in the spring, with Perry emerging with a slight edge. Perry started three games at left corner a year ago and had over 400 total plays, including 100 on special teams. Cisar was one of only three "true" freshmen to letter last fall.

Hernon Henderson, who took a redshirt last year after lettering as a freshman in 1987, made the move pay dividends by ending the spring as the No. 1 left corner. Two sophomores - Mark Graham and Leonard Humphries - will be prominent in the preseason scrambling for secondary positions. Both played extensively as freshmen. Graham's spring was interrupted by a dislocated shoulder.

Eric Gudger, Greg Fusetti, Corey Jett, Frank Yeboah-Kodie and Rich Rosa are other defensive backs who could bid to play a larger role as the picture in the secondary develops during the preseason.

Punter Doug Helkowski and placement specialists Ray Tarasi and Henry Adkins offer the promise of an experienced kicking game. Helkowski handled every punt last year, averaging 39.2 yards and logging five boots of over 50 yards. Tarasi was 7-of-14 on field goal tries, including 7-for-9 between 20-39 yards. He did not miss a PAT in 19 attempts. In the spring game, Tarasi nailed a 51-yard field goal, which would have been a career long. Adkins was 1-for-4 on field goals and 4-for-4 on PATs. He was out for a part of the spring with an injury.

Paterno says the kickers have adapted to the new rule eliminating the kicking tee quicker than the coaching staff.

"We're not sure what is going to happen, but I am concerned about how it is going to affect long field goals where there is a tendency to power the ball rather than chip it," Paterno said.

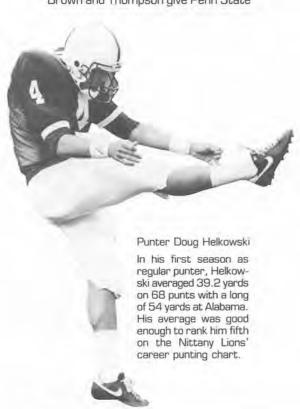

The Lions need to isolate an authentic replacement for punt returner Michael Timpson, who averaged 10.1 yards on punt returns last fall and had a TD return each of the last two seasons. Wideout Terry Smith was Timpson's principal backup in 1988 with a 5.3-yard average on six returns.

Brown and Thompson give Penn State

a strong 1-2 punch to handle kickoffs. Brown averaged 19.4 yards and Thompson 18.9 in 1988. If starting responsibilities scratch them from the kickoff team, Gerry Collins, O.J. McDuffie and Bobby Samuels offer exciting possibilities as kick returners.

Penn State's Paterno has been carefully placing the pieces for 40 years and, he's the first to admit, it's often difficult to predict how the puzzle will come together. The 1988 team worked tirelessly, didn't quit, and still ended on the minus side of the ledger.

Improvement seems the operative word for 1989, but with a note of caution. Many must return from injury many must experience rapid maturation the varieties of weather and schedule the ability to stay healthy and the determination to stay focused — all will impact on how high and how fast the Lions bounce back from last year's atypical performance.

PLAYERS

No. 2 HENRY ADKINS 5-9 148 1-14-69 Junior Kicker Charlotte, N.C.

Promising Henry Adkins got his feet wet last year and, based on that experience, appears poised to challenge senior Ray Tarasi for the placement job. Adkins experienced his problems in the spring game, missing field goal efforts of 22 and 34 yards. He was perfect on three extra points. Although Tarasi was listed No. 1 on the final spring depth chart, an impressive preseason practice could propel Adkins right back into contention for the regular assignment.

LION CAREER: 1988-Aside from a successful PAT in the Cincinnati game, Adkins' participation was limited to kick-offs until he became the placement specialist for the Maryland game. He hit the first field goal of his college career in the opening quarter against the Terps, splitting the uprights from 27 yards. For the year, he was 1-of-4 on field goal tries. He missed from 46 yards vs. Cincinnati, 49 yards vs. Maryland and 39 yards vs. Pittsburgh. He was perfect on four PATs. 1987-Adkins was a member of the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-time all-conference selection at Charlotte County Day School, Adkins was successful on 3-of-6 field goal attempts his senior season. In his career, he connected on 8-of-13 field goal tries with his best a 53-yarder. Adkins won three letters as a kicker and punter and in baseball as a shortstop and pitcher.

PERSONAL: Full name is Henry Thomas Adkins. He is enrolled in the finance program of the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: (On the elimination of the kicking tee) "It's just a lot of little techniques you have to do, like where you hit the ball and adjusting your step. But otherwise you get used to it pretty easily... Kickers have now become way too accurate, maybe not here at Penn State, but in general over the last 15 years. They're trying to cut the kicking a little out of it." — Henry Adkins.

JEFF ANDERSON
6-2 230 5-6-69

Junior
Inside Linebacker
Bridgewater, N.J.

For Jeff Anderson, just getting back on the field was a triumph. After 18 months of inactivity due to a severe broken leg, the junior participated fully in spring drills and climbed to No. 3, behind Scott Gob, at inside linebacker. With Gob out for most of the spring and the linebacker ranks thinned by additional injuries, Anderson got plenty of work. He started for the White defense in the spring game and was credited with three tackles and three pass deflections. Anderson's grit and knowledge of defense label him as a candidate for meaningful playing time in 1989.

LION CAREER: 1988-Anderson spent the season in the training room, continuing the rehabilitation of a broken leg suffered in the 1987 preseason. He did get some limited work with the foreign team, only to suffer a succession of additional injuries. Anderson dressed for one game [Rutgers]. 1987-Anderson did not see action and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: An all-state selection in football and lacrosse at Bridgewater East HS, Anderson served as captain in both sports his junior and senior years. A linebacker and tight end, he recorded 196 career tackles and snared 26 passes. Anderson competed for New Jersey's

South team in the 1987 football and lacrosse all-star games.

PERSONAL: Full name is Jeffrey Scott Anderson. His father, Dick, served as an assistant coach on the Penn State staff from 1973-83, before taking the head job at Rutgers. Anderson has two brothers and a sister and is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "With all the injury problems he's had, Jeff is not quite comfortable in there (at inside linebacker) yet. He doesn't anticipate some things yet and needs to improve on his movement, which I think is natural for someone who has been out for so long. You can see he is a good athlete. He is a good inside linebacker." — Joe Paterno.

MATT BAGGETT 6-1 200 1-19-69 Junior Outside Linebacker Doylestown, Pa.

Matt Baggett is among a number of players who missed all of spring practice, but are expected back to challenge for positions on the depth chart this fall. Baggett was idled with a pesky shoulder injury. He is an athlete who has the speed and finesse to play in the secondary, where he previously has worked at cornerback, and the toughness to be a linebacker. He was listed No. 3 behind Geoff Japchen and Keith Goganious on the final spring depth chart, but can be expected to bid for a more significant role if he is completely healthy.

LION CAREER: 1988-A starter against Rutgers when the Lions opened with an extra linebacker, Baggett won his first letter as he accumulated 311 plays, almost evenly split between defense [148] and special teams [163]. He ended the season with 14 tackles [12 solo] and six defensed passes. Baggett had threetackle games against Virginia, Rutgers and Syracuse. 1987-Baggett worked with the foreign team defense, but did not register playing time, thus retaining freshman eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: An all-state selection at Central Bucks West HS, Baggett started at linebacker on the 1984 and '85 state championship teams. A Big 33 selection, he also won all-league honors in basketball and in track as a javelin thrower and relay man.

PERSONAL: Full name is Matthew McLeod Baggett. He has a brother and a sister. Baggett is enrolled in the insurance program of the College of Business Administration.

No. 12 TOM BILL 6-2 202 7-7-68 Senior Quarterback Flemington, N.J.

For a fellow who hadn't taken a snap from center since September, Tom Bill had a remarkable spring. He and Tony Sacca dueled for the No. 1 job at quarterback, a battle that is expected to resume in August. On the final depth chart, Bill owned a slight edge over the less-experienced Sacca. Bill guided the White team in the spring game, hitting on 7-of-18 pass attempts for 92 yards in conditions not conducive to an air attack. He was sacked twice and intercepted once. His 31-yard pitch to Dave Daniels, which set up the first touchdown of the afternoon. was the longest pass play of the game. Bill also carried four times for nine yards and had an 18-yard run on a bootleg.

LION CAREER: 1988-After a blazing start, Bill's season went up in flames when he suffered a dislocated kneecap against Rutgers and spent the rest of the year as a spectator. In three appearances as a starter, Bill completed 36-of-68 passes for 476 yards and three touchdowns. He suffered a pair of interceptions and was sacked nine times. Bill had a brilliant game in the opener at Virginia, hitting on 15-of-22 passes for 179 vards and two TDs. He was neither intercepted nor sacked and added a dozen vards on three rushes. In his three starts, Bill logged 195 offensive plays. 1987-As a redshirt freshman, Bill was backup to Matt Knizner. He was in for 111 plays and completed 16-of-36 attempts [44.4 percent) for 247 yards. He had TD passes, both to Ray Roundtree, of 21 vards vs. Alabama and 59 yards at Syracuse. His longest and most effective stint was against Alabama, when he was rushed into action after Knizner suffered a concussion. He hit 7-of-11 for 88 yards and one TD against the Tide. He was 4-of-10 for 100 yards and a touchdown in a reserve appearance at Syracuse. Bill's rushing totals were modest: 11 carries for 29 yards. He threw four interceptions and was sacked three times. A preseason shoulder injury hampered his development and he missed the Pittsburgh and Notre Dame games with a hand iniury suffered when he hit a teammate's helmet in warmups prior to the Maryland contest. In a brief Citrus Bowl role, he carried once for three yards and did not attempt a pass. 1986-Bill worked with the foreign team and did not see action during the National Championship season. However, he did portray Miami's Vinny Testaverde in Fiesta Bowl practices and helped the Nittany Lions prepare for the Heisman Trophy winner and his No. 1rated squad.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-time all-state performer in football and lacrosse, Bill won All-American honors in both sports. As a quarterback for Hunterdon Central HS, he passed for 49 scores and over 5,000 yards. He guided the team to the state title game in his senior year and served as captain of the football and lacrosse squads that year. He played in the 1986 New Jersey all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Thomas James Bill. He has six brothers and two sisters and is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Tom Bill has obviously had more experience (than any of the other quarterbacks). He is more consistent, has a better grasp of the offense and is a bit more assured about things. He is more decisive when he reads coverage and things like that . . . I don't think Bill has the job by any means, but, because of his experience, right now he is ahead . . ." — Joe Paterno.

"It was tough watching (the final eight games of 1988) when I could have been in there. I should have been in there. That pretty much was my feeling all season. It was a tough year, but everybody played their hardest." - Tom Bill.

"I play as hard as I can and try to be positive and try to be pumped up. The quarterback has to have the attitude that we're going to do it, to give everybody else the same attitude. When you get everybody with that attitude, then things start clicking." — Tom Bill-

No. 27
GARY BROWN
5-10 190 7-1-69
Junior Fullback
Williamsport, Pa.

One of the most carefully-watched experiments of spring practice was the move of 1988 top rusher Gary Brown from tailback to fullback. Brown's quick burst and straight-ahead power seem tailored to the new position. On the final spring depth chart, Brown shared the No. 1 fullback slot with Sam Gash, who missed all of spring drills with a wrist injury. Brown missed the Blue-White game due to the death of a relative.

LION CAREER: 1988-With Blair Thomas injured, Brown shared tailback duties with Leroy Thompson and Sean Redman. Brown finished as the leading rusher with 689 yards on 136 carries. an average of 5.1 yards per try. His longest run of the season was a 57-yard touchdown scamper at Temple, Brown also paced the team in scoring with 44 points on seven touchdowns and one twopoint conversion. He was the No. 4 pass receiver, making 11 catches for 152 yards and one touchdown. His best rushing statistics were against Maryland, a game in which he gained 102 yards on 17 tries, the first 100-yard rushing performance of his Penn State career. He topped the 80-yard mark vs. both Boston College [83] and Temple [80]. Brown caught four passes for 45 yards against Rutgers. He also was the No. 1 kickoff returner with 427 yards, an average of 19.4 yards per try, and topped the team in all-purpose running with an average of 115.3 yards per game rushing, receiving and returning. His 36-vard kickoff return at Virginia was his longest of the season. He established a record for kickoff returns with seven at West Virginia. Brown opened at tailback in six games and played on 376 offensive downs, second only to John Greene among running backs. 1987-The No. 3 rusher. Brown started at tailback in the Citrus Bowl for the injured Blair Thomas and rushed 13 times for 51 yards (3.9 average), with a long gain of 21 yards. He also caught two passes for 14 yards. In 11 regularseason appearances, Brown carried 42 times for 273 yards [6.5 average] and three TDs. His 80-yard TD jaunt at Syracuse was Penn State's longest play and put Brown in the record book for the longest run by a Lion freshman (matching Kevin Baugh's effort vs. Colgate in 1980]. Against the Orange, Brown had his best day with 94 yards on five carries. His two other TDs came on a 36-yard run vs. Cincinnati and a 19-yard scamper for the winning score vs. West Virginia. He also caught three passes for 19 yards and returned four kickoffs for 71 yards. Brown and Leroy Thompson shared No. 2 tailback chores behind Thomas.

HIGH SCHOOL: Pennsylvania's 1986 high school Player-of-the-Year, Brown earned first-team all-state honors and led Williamsport Area HS to the Eastern Conference championship. In three years, Brown rushed for 4,111 yards, scored 74 touchdowns and capped his career by playing in the 1986 Big 33 game. A track standout, Brown was part of a state championship quartet in the 4×100 relay.

PERSONAL: Full name is Gary Leroy Brown. Brown, who has two younger brothers, is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate Studies.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Gary Brown is too good a football player to sit behind anyone. When you first suggest the move [to fullback] to a young man like Gary, he has dreams of blocking for the tailback all day and never carrying the football. Once he got over the shock and realized he was going to carry the ball and could play fullback, he was fine after a couple of days of practice." - Joe Paterno.

'I was surprised at first (by the move to fullback), because I wanted to be a tailback and I was worried about not getting the ball. But it's a team oriented move. Fullback is much different, a lot quicker. At tailback, there is more time to read the defense. At fullback, you have to be decisive. And you have to block." -Gary Brown.

"I want to walk out of here knowing that I was the best back that I could possibly be. I don't ever want to secondguess myself on what I could have been if I had tried harder." — Gary Brown.

BRIAN CHIZMAR
6-1 204 6-20-68
Senior
Outside Linebacker
Swissvale, Pa.

Few players on the roster have more experience than Brian Chizmar, who has participated in nearly 1,600 plays in three letter-winning seasons. A fixture in the defensive secondary the last two years, Chizmar spent the spring learning a new position — outside linebacker. While the preference is to leave Chizmar at linebacker, the coaching staff has not ruled out a return to his more familiar hero position in the fall. A hard hitter who plays all-out on every down, Chizmar is expected to be one of the Lions' defensive leaders. Chizmar was elected defensive co-captain (with inside linebacker Andre Collins) by his teammates at the conclusion of spring drills. He had a pair of tackles in the Blue-White game.

LION CAREER: 1988-Chizmar had eight starts: a knee injury suffered in practice kept him out of the Maryland and Pittsburgh games. He returned to play in a reserve role at Notre Dame, where he made six tackles and recovered a fumble. Despite missing all of two games and parts of two others, Chizmar was third in tackles with 56 stops (42 solo). He also had four quarterback sacks and five tackles behind the line of scrimmage. In addition to the fumble recovery at Notre Dame, Chizmar had interceptions against Boston College and Alabama. His best tackle total was against Boston College. when he had 10 unassisted stops and a pair of guarterback sacks. He had nine tackles and a sack at Alabama and eight stops vs. Cincinnati. In all, Chizmar accumulated 633 plays, more than 500 of them on defense. 1987-A starter in nine games, Chizmar saved his top performance for the finale against Notre Dame. He had a significant role in the victory with six tackles, all solo, an end zone pass interception to turn back an Irish scoring threat, and a fumble recovery following a third-down punt that led to Penn State's first TD. For the year, Chizmar was the leading tackler and interceptor; he had 69 stops, including 57 solos, and picked off three passes. Chizmar also had one quarterback sack (at Pittsburgh) and four tackles for losses (totaling 17 yards). Two of his interceptions came against Rutgers, including one for 18 yards, the team's second-longest of the season. He successfully defensed a dozen passes, one less than team-leader Marques Henderson. Chizmar had eleven tackles in two games: vs. Rutgers (nine solo, two assists) and at Syracuse (10 solo, one assist). He had nine tackles and two more for losses in the win over Maryland in Baltimore, a game in which he nailed Terp quarterback Neil O'Donnell for a loss in a third-and-two situation at the Penn State two-yard line with the Lions leading. 14-6. Chizmar was in on more than 700 total plays (653 on defense, 112 on special teams]. In the Citrus Bowl, he made seven tackles (four solo). 1986-Chizmar and Andre Collins were the only freshmen to win letters. Chizmar made six tackles, mostly on special teams. He participated in 45 defensive plays and 152 on the special teams, the third-best total in the group. Chizmar was credited with a pass broken up against Syracuse. His top defensive performances were against Rutgers [three tackles] and at Alabama [two tackles]. He also made an assisted tackle in the Fiesta Bowl.

HIGH SCHOOL: An All-American and Big. 33 selection his senior year at Swissvale HS, Chizmar also was an all-conference choice as a pitcher and outfielder in baseball. He gained over 4,500 yards in his career, including 1,762 yards and 15 TDs as a senior. His career rushing totals were the tenth-best in state history and the third-best in the annals of the WPIAL. He also threw four halfback option passes and led the team in tackles from his "monster" position as a senior. Chizmar. whose number was retired, was named the WPIAL class AA Player-of-the-Year and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Male Athlete-of-the-Year. In baseball, he batted .492, had a 5-1 mark as a starting pitcher and was named to the Post-Gazette all-area team his senior year. PERSONAL: Full name is Brian Gerard QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I work hard. I practice every day like it's my last practice. I play every game like it's my last game. So when my football career is over, I can look back and have no regrets and get on with my life." — Brian Chizmar.

"If things don't work out in terms of a pro football career, I'm definitely going to return to school for my master's degree. I came here to play football, but I'll also do well in school. If it happens with football, great, but I'm prepared if it doesn't."

— Brian Chizmar.

"I think Brian's fine [at linebacker]. He needs to get a little stronger this summer to play effectively on the tight ends. Everything else he does well. With the addition of eight or nine pounds and a summer of weight training, Brian will be a fine linebacker. Whether we can afford to keep him there will depend on how some of the youngsters come through at the hero spot." — Joe Paterno.

ANDRE COLLINS
6-3 200 5-4-68
Senior
Inside Linebacker
Cinnaminson, N.J.

Expect Andre Collins to be one of the nation's premiere inside linebackers in 1989. The New Jersey senior was the Lions' leading tackler in 1988 and, based on his progress during spring drills, is poised to improve on his accomplishments of a year ago. Collins was all over the field in the Blue-White game, finishing atop the defensive statistics with a dozen tackles He also knocked down a pass and recovered a fumble. Now in his second year at inside linebacker, after moving from safety in the spring of 1988, Collins has less learning to do and can concentrate on a swifter reaction. One of the fastest defensive players on the squad, Collins was elected a co-captain (with Brian Chizmar and Blair Thomas) at the conclusion of spring practice.

LION CAREER: 1988-Collins finished the season with 110 tackles, the best total for a Lion defender since Greg Buttle was credited with 140 stops in 1975. He had 63 solo stops and 47 assists as he rolled up the fifth-best season figures in the 20 years that tackling statistics have been a part of the Penn State defensive report. Since 1975, only two other Lions. have had over 100 tackles - Harry Hamilton [100 in 1983] and Rogers Alexander [102 in 1985]. Collins had 13 tackles in two games last fall: vs. Syracuse and at Notre Dame. He had nine solo stops vs. both Boston College and Rutgers and nine assists at Notre Dame. Collins recovered a fumble in the loss to Pittsburgh. He blocked a punt, which resulted in a touchdown at Temple, and had two guarterback sacks at Alabama. He participated in 854 plays, more than any other Penn State player. Collins enters 1989 with 127 career tackles. At the conclusion of spring practice in 1988, Collins won the Jim O'Hora Award as the "most improved" defensive player. He proved the appropriateness of the award by making 17 tackles [eleven solo] in the Blue-White game, 1987-In winning his second letter, Collins logged more than 200 plays. He was on the field for 150 special teams plays and 77 on defensive downs. As the back-up to Brian Chizmar at hero, Collins registered 12 tackles [11 solo]. He recorded three stops vs. Temple and two in each of three other contests [Alabama, Cincinnati, Notre Dame]. He also broke up a pass at Syracuse, Collins was credited with two tackles in the Citrus Bowl. 1986-Collins and Chizman were the only "true" freshmen to win letters. Collins participated in 33 defensive and 97 special teams plays. He was credited with five solo tackles, including two against Rutgers and Pittsburgh and one against Alabama. He also recorded a stop in the Fiesta Bowl.

HIGH SCHOOL: Collins was a three-year letterman at Cinnaminson HS, where he won all-county honors in football, track and basketball. As a senior, he averaged 12 tackles per game, while making three interceptions and rushing for more than 800 yards.

PERŚONAL: Full name is Andre Pierre Collins. He is one of 19 children and has six brothers and 12 sisters. Andre's brother, Gerry, a transfer from Colorado State, is a tailback on the Penn State squad and was the leading rusher in the 1989 Blue-White game. Collins is a health planning and administration major in the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I think Andre Collins is a great player. Andre's as good an inside linebacker as there is in America this year. He runs well and he's a complete football player — smart, tough, a great leader and an emotional player. I think Andre is probably as good a linebacker as we have had around here." — Joe Paterno.

"His older brothers and sisters gave him something to look forward to in sports. They were all very athletic. Growing up, Andre always wanted to excel in both sports and academics." — Frances Collins, Andre's mother.

"I love the feeling of being a linebacker. Before every game I'm rowdy, yelling 'Linebacker U.' But you've got to work into it. It's not just 'Linebacker U.' because you put on the uniform. You have to make it on your own and earn your spot." — Andre Collins.

(On wearing the No. 31 that previously belonged to All-American Shane Conlan, now an NFL All-Pro) "That was my number in midget and high school. I wanted to keep it up." — Andre Collins.

No. 23 GERRY COLLINS 5-9 185 6-4-69 Junior Tailback Cinnaminson, N.J.

The younger brother of inside linebacker Andre Collins, Gerry Collins made quite a debut in the Blue-White game, when he rushed for 142 yards and two touchdowns on 21 carries. His 36-yard scoring run was the game's longest play from scrimmage. His name immediately popped up on the backfield depth chart. Collins transferred to Penn State after attending Colorado State for one semester.

LION CAREER: 1988-Collins ran tailback for the foreign team and has three years of eligibility remaining.

HIGH SCHOOL: Collins was a first-team all-county and second-team All-South Jersey selection as a tailback at Cinnaminson HS. He served as captain of the football team his senior year and also was a sprinter on the track and field team. PERSONAL: Full name is Gerald S. Collins. He is one year and one month younger than his brother, Andre. Collins is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I've been practicing well all spring. This [Blue-White game] is just another scrimmage, so I just went out and tried to keep doing what I already did. I think I left a pretty good impression. Everyone wanted my autograph out there [following the game]." — Gerry Collins.

"It was hard getting used to tackling him. I didn't like to do it at first, because when we were in high school our coach never let us tackle each other. So when he came up here, it was kind of tough at first. I would hold off and try to wrap him up a little bit. But, I finally got used to getting into him." — Andre Collins.

No. 49
BOB DAMAN
6-2 192 3-17-70
Sophomore Fullback
Camp Hill, Pa.

A tailback/safety in high school, Bob Daman began his Penn State career on defense. Interestingly enough, he was a starting fullback in the 1989 Blue-White game, where he carried the ball three times for 12 yards and caught a 9-yard pass. Daman was working at hero, when the switch to offense was made in the spring.

LION CAREER: 1988-Daman was a member of the foreign team and did not play, thus retaining four seasons of eliaibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: Daman rushed for 1,371 yards his senior year and led Cedar Cliff HS to the 1987 district 3

AAAA championship. The 11-1 Colts defeated York in the district semifinal behind Daman, who rambled for 240 yards, including scoring runs of 82 and 43 yards. He set a school record for career rushing yards in just two seasons at tailback. Daman was a third-team all-state selection at strong safety and was a member of Pennsylvania's victorious 1988 Big 33 squad. For the track and field team, he participated in the jumps, sprints and relays. His best in the long jump was 22-5.

PERSONAL: Full name is Robert Patrick Daman. He is enrolled in the College of Engineering and plans to major in civil engineering.

QUOTE, UNGUOTE: "Bob was a high school tailback and we thought about making him a strong safety. I liked the way he did a couple of things and talked him into playing fullback, even though he wasn't sure he wanted to make the switch. A 200-pounder, Bob has a lot of shock and is going to be a good blocker. He's got to put on some weight, but he's young and he will." — Joe Paterno.

No. 26
DAVID DANIELS
6-1 185 9-16-69
Junior
Wide Receiver
Sarasota, Fla.

As a newcomer last fall, Dave Daniels demonstrated he has all of the ingredients to be a major weapon in the pass offense. Daniels did nothing to diminish that opinion in spring practice. He ended the spring where he had finished the fall, as the No. 1 split end. His size and speed make him an exceptional target. One of the starting wideouts for the White team in the spring game, Daniels made three catches for 61 yards, including a 31-yard toss from Tom Bill to set up the game's first touchdown. The Bill-to-Daniels pass was the longest of the afternoon. Daniels also had more than double the receiving yardage of any player in the game.

It was Daniels' longest. reception of the season. He had one TD catch and it was equally memorable. The play covered 38 yards and came in the final minute of the first half against Rutgers. The gifted wideout had three receptions in two games - Rutgers and Notre Dame. His best yardage total was 69 vs. Pittsburgh, Daniels started eight games (in the other three the Lions used a double tight end set] and played 444 downs, ranking him in the Top 10 (9th) in offensive playing time. He also carried the ball three times on the reverse for a net of 11 yards rushing. His longest gain was 18 yards at Virginia. 1987-Daniels worked with the foreign team and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: Daniels earned all-state and honorable-mention All-American honors as a wide receiver and defensive back at Sarasota HS, the alma mater of former Lion defensive lineman Tim Johnson. In his career, Daniels caught 62 passes for 1,246 yards and 16 touchdowns. He also intercepted 11 passes. "I like to see myself maturing and getting better every week. When I make mistakes, it can be frustrating, but that is where I'm learning discipline. I hope I just keep on improving." — Dave Daniels.

DuBois, Pa.

Jim Deter has spent his defensive career making adjustments. He started as an inside linebacker, then moved to tackle and, this spring, was inserted at nose tackle. MARK D'ONOFRIO 6-2 225 3-17-69 Junior Inside Linebacker Teaneck, N.J.

Presented with an opportunity by Scott Gob's absence from spring practice, Mark D'Onofrio made the most of it with a performance that left him dead even with Gob on the final depth chart. An aggressive player with outstanding potential. D'Onofrio was one of the top tacklers in the Blue-White game for the second straight spring. He was credited with eight tackles, five solo. In 1988, D'Onofrio had 10 stops in the spring game. LION CAREER: 1988-A backup inside linebacker, D'Onofrio missed just one game (Temple) as he topped 200 in total plays with 123 snaps on defense and 89 on special teams. D'Onofrio checked in with 36 tackles, all but two unassisted. He also had one tackle for a four-yard loss. The West Virginia and Cincinnati games were the most active for D'Onofrio, who had five tackles in each. 1987-D'Onofrio worked with the foreign team, but did not register any playing time, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1988. No. 78
6-2½ 265 7-16-67

Canton, Ohio

The most experienced offensive lineman, the Nittany Lions have great expectations for Roger Duffy. Already a two-time letterman, Duffy had a solid spring practice, easily holding on to his No. 1 status at center. With a young cast on the offensive line, Duffy will shoulder an increased leadership role. He was the starting center for the White offense in the spring game. He has a string of 19 consecutive games in the starting lineup, including the 1988 Citrus Bowl.

LION CAREER: 1988-Duffy and tight end Dave Jakob were the only Lions to start every game on offense. "A lot of their dedication came because the two of them have common interests. They criticized each other and critiqued each other. I think that definitely helped."

— Roger Duffy, Sr., Roger and Pat's father.

[On how he'd like to be perceived by younger offensive linemen] "I want them to see me as a hard worker. I want them to see me in the weight room on my own time. 6-3 265 10-16-68 Senior Guard Woodstown, N.J.

Frustrating may not be sufficiently descriptive of the emotion Mike Flanagan has felt the last two years. Flanagan missed all of 1988 and much of 1987 with neck and, more recently, shoulder injuries that have put his career on hold. No. 7 TIM FREEMAN 6-5 270 12-16-66 Senior Tackle Virginia Beach, Va.

One of only three returning offensive linemen with starting experience [Roger Duffy and Ed Monaghan are the others], it hardly was surprising to see Tim Freeman listed No. 1 at short tackle on the final spring depth chart. No. 56
MAC GALLAGHER
6-2 245 7-9-69
Junior Tackle
Forty Fort, Pa.

One of the more successful personnel moves of the spring was the transfer of Mac Gallagher, who split his previous time between defensive tackle and center, to offensive tackle. Gallagher had a rapid adjustment to the new spot, advancing all the way to No. 2 behind the veteran Tim Freeman at short tackle on the final spring depth chart. Gallagher started for the Blue offense in the spring game.

LION CAREER: 1988-Gallagher dressed for the Boston College, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh games, but saw no service, spending the majority of his season laboring on the foreign team. HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state selection as a senior at Wyoming Valley West HS, Gallagher competed in the 1986 UNICO all-star game, where he suffered a shoulder injury that kept him out of the Big 33 contest. A three-sport letterman, he served as captain of the football and basketball teams.

No. 1 SAM GASH 6-0 225 3-7-69 Junior Fullback Hendersonville, N.C.

Staying healthy is the biggest hurdle for powerful Sam Gash to reach his full potential as a football player. Gash missed all of spring practice with a wrist injury that required surgery. If he is healthy in the fall, Gash can be expected to battle Gary Brown and John Gerak for the fullback spot left vacant by the graduation of John Greene. There's not much question that Gash has the football skills to be a major contributor, but his progress has been stunted by a succession of bothersome injuries.

LION CAREER: 1988-When the Lions got near the goal line, the ball went to Gash, who responded with seven touchdowns, all from close range. Gash got into 10 games and started for an ailing John Greene in the finale at Notre Dame. He was the No. 5 rusher with 110 yards on 35 carries (3.1 average). He averaged 1.3 points per carry and was No. 2 in scoring with seven touchdowns and 44 points. He had the longest run of his career at Notre Dame with a 23-yard gainer in the first quarter. Earlier in the year, Gash reached another personalhigh, when he raced 37 yards on a screen pass vs. Cincinnati. His best rushing total was 28 yards at Notre Dame. 1987-One of a handful of freshmen to log significant playing time, Gash was the No. 3 fullback. He tallied 41 plays on offense, including eight rushes for 19 yards and one touchdown - an eight-yard run against Cincinnati for his first collegiate score. In three games, Gash carried once for five yards against Bowling Green, five times for 17 yards against Cincinnati and twice for minus-three yards against Temple. In addition, he caught one pass for four yards against the Bearcats. Gash also played on the special teams, manning the second line with the kickoff return. unit. His progress was limited somewhat:

A four-year letterman in basketball, he played center on the school's 1987 state title team. Gash was president of the student body his senior year and a member of the National Honor Society.

PERSONAL: Full name is Samuel Lee Gash, Jr. Gash, who has one brother, is enrolled in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "When I'm in close to the end zone I think of myself as a cannon ball. I lower my head and go because I know I can't break a long run from there. If I'm out around the 40-yard line, I'm supposed to keep my head up and look for holes, but I've gotten so used to lowering my head that it's hard to break the habit." - Sam Gash.

Junior
Outside Linebacker
Virginia Beach, Va.

A starter in the season finale at Notre Dame last season. Keith Goganious worked the entire spring at outside linebacker and waged a formidable struggle with Geoff Japohen for a regular job. While Japchen was a narrow No. 1 when the final spring depth chart emerged. Goganious again will be an earnest challenger when preseason practice convenes. For the second straight spring, Goganious missed practice time with an injury - last year a fracture of the finger. this spring a finger in the eye. He got back for the Blue-White game, however, and left his calling card with three tackles, one and one-half quarterback sacks (for 18.5 yards in losses) and two pass deflections. LION CAREER: 1988-Playing both inside and outside linebacker, Goganious was involved in more than 300 plays to rank No. 5 among defensive reserves. Al has good size for the tight end position at around 240 pounds. I have been very impressed with the way he's caught the football and the way he's run with it after making the catch. 6-2 240 7-4-69
Junior Tight End
Colts Neck, N.J.

After a year of limited activity at defensive tackle, Al Golden hopes his spring move to tight end will signal a more significant role in 1989. Golden's switch from defense to offense was one of the more intriguing moves of the spring, since the Jersey native had been primarily a defensive operative in two previous campaigns. Golden didn't catch any passes in the Blue-White game, but was a solid receiver in scrimmages.

LION CAREER: 1988-Golden had brief stints in the Virginia, Temple and Cincinnati games as a backup defensive lineman. 1987-Golden did not play, retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: A two-way starter at Red Bank Catholic HS, Golden was a first-team all-region selection his senior year. On offense, he lined up at tight end and caught 11 career touchdown passes. Mark Graham is listed among the top three candidates at right cornerback along with Willie Thomas and Eric Gudger. Graham suffered a shoulder injury midway through spring drills and did not play in the Blue-White game.

LION CAREER: 1988-Graham was one of only four "true" freshmen to see significant playing time on defense (Eric Renkey, Chris Cisar and Leonard Humphries being the others). He was in on 47 plays in five games and made two tackles with his longest stint coming at Temple. HIGH SCHOOL: Graham lettered in three sports, but was a relatively unheralded football recruit coming out of Clifton HS. He was the top tailback as a senior and was named to the Newark Star-Ledger all-state team and the Passaic/Essex Division all-conference team. Graham also played cornerback, but was recognized more for his rushing totals. He lettered as a guard in basketball and was a standout member of the track and field team.

PERSONAL: Full name is Mark S. Graham. Graham, who was born in Jamaica, is enrolled in the College of Business Administration and has hopes of working on Wall Street.

No. 16 ERIC GUDGER 5-11½ 169 11-7-67 Senior Cornerback Columbus, Ohio

Good cornerbacks always are at a premium, making Eric Gudger an especially valuable player. Gudger has some game experience in each of the last two years and knows the defensive schemes. During spring practice, Gudger worked the right corner and shared the No. 2 spot [with Mark Graham] behind Willie Thomas on the final spring depth chart. He had three unassisted tackles in the Blue-White game. Gudger has played on a number of different special teams in the past two campaigns.

LION CAREER: 1988-Gudger dressed for every game and had appearances against Virginia, Boston College, Rutgers, Temple, Cincinnati and Alabama. All of his 30 plays were logged on special teams. 1987-Gudger, who saw virtually all of his playing time with the special teams last fall, also was a member of the defensive foreign team. He played mainly with the punting unit and made a surprise debut as a receiver in the Maryland game. When an errant snap almost eluded punter Chris Clauss, Clauss dumped a sixyard pass to Gudger that was shy of a first down. Gudger worked his way onto the special teams in the Syracuse game and then played against West Virginia, Maryland and Pittsburgh and was credited with two tackles. He totalled 23 plays in special teams situations.

HIGH SCHOOL: Gudger won four letters as a tailback and safety at Bishop Hartley HS. He was on the winning squad in a 1986 all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Eric Allen Gudger. He is enrolled in the rehabilitation education program of the College of Education.

HENDERSON
5-11 185 9-9-69
Junior Cornerback
Chantilly, Va.

A redshirt year on the foreign team was invaluable for Hernon Henderson, who improved both his maturity and his athletic skills as witness his ascendency in spring drills to the No. 1 spot at left cornerback. An engineering major, Henderson elected to sit as a sophomore, after lettering in 1987, to get his study habits firmly established and to compensate for a late start in high school by sharpening his knowledge and techniques. Henderson's performance enabled the staff to move Sherrod Rainge to safety. In the Blue-White game, Henderson made three tackles and broke up three passes.

LION CAREER: 1988-Henderson opted to spend a year on the foreign team to play catch-up for a late grid start in high school. He worked at cornerback with the demonstration squad and retained sophomore eligibility. 1987-One of five "true" freshmen to earn a letter in his first season, Henderson registered two tackles, both at Syracuse. Playing at the No. 3 left corner, he was in on 18 downs defensively and 68 special teams plays.

A third-team all-state and honorable-mention All-Metro Washington (D.C.) choice as a defensive back, Henderson began playing football in his junior year at Chantilly HS. Henderson also was a Virginia North-South all-star. He won three letters and was an all-region pick in soccer and earned two letters and regional recognition as a sprinter in track. He captained the track and soccer squads in his senior year.

PERSONAL: Full name is Hernon Devon Henderson. Henderson, who has four older sisters, is enrolled in the mechanical engineering program of the College of quote, unquote: "I think Hernon had a fine spring, the redshirt year was good for him. We used him as a freshman because he had such outstanding potential, but he never really quite developed. Part of that was because he is an engineer, a very conscientious student, and he was concerned about his studies. In addition, he had only played a year or so of high school football and the lack of playing time made him uncomfortable at times. Now he is on a really solid basis in his curriculum and showed in the spring he has gained maturity and confidence as a player." — Joe Paterno.

Huntington helped spring tailback Gerry Collins loose for 142 yards and two scores in the Blue-White game. He is vying for short tackle duty with Tim Freeman, Mac Gallagher and E.J. Sandusky.

LION CAREER: 1988-It is rare for a freshman to play on the Penn State offensive line, but Huntington did reach the third peg on the depth chart. He got in on a handful of plays at Virginia and Temple and has three years of eligibility remaining.

HIGH SCHOOL: Selected as the Lineman-of-the-Year by the Cincinnati Post his senior year at Moeller HS, Huntington signed with the Lions after being recruited by a number of Division I-A schools. He was named first-team All-Southwest Ohio and second-team all-state.

Senior
Tight End
Clifton Park, N.Y.

A fifth-year senior. Dave Jakob missed the final stages of spring practice and the Blue-White game with an injury. He maintained a strong hold, however, on the starting job at tight end, where he was the top operative a year ago. Jakob's versatility and toughness are underlined by his previous experience at linebacker, where he started three games in 1987. LION CAREER: 1988-One of only two offensive players to start every game. Jakob emerged as the No. 2 receiver with 20 catches for 274 yards and a 13.7 average. He caught at least one pass in every outing, the only player to do so. His touchdown receptions were against Temple and Cincinnati and his longest catch of the year a 27-yard hookup with Tony Sacca vs. the Bearcats. Jakob caught a season-high of three passes in three games (Virginia, Boston College, Syracuse). Only Roger Duffy was on the field for more offensive plays than Jakob [679]. 1987-The Lions' unusual run of injuries resulted in Jakob starting three games at linebacker - Bowling Green and Alabama on the inside and West Virginia outside. Jakob finished with 12 tackles (nine solo), including a sack of four yards at Syracuse and a tackle for a loss of two at Maryland. He also recovered a fumble against the Orangemen. Jakob, a first-time letterman, was on the field for 235 defensive plays and an additional 47 on special teams. He played in the Citrus Bowl, but had no tackles. 1986-Jakob caught one pass for 20 yards in the win over Syracuse and played on the special teams. He was involved in 35 offensive plays and 29 on special teams. Jakob grabbed one pass for 17 yards in the 1986 Blue-White game. 1985-He worked at tight end and linebacker as a freshman, but did not see game action.

HIGH SCHOOL: Jakob was a three-year starter and first-team All-New York state selection at tight end and linebacker for No. 1-rated Shenendehowa HS. His team was 10-0 in his senior season as he caught 16 passes for 234 yards and two touchdowns in a run-oriented offense. The Schenectedy Gazette named him its 1984 Defensive Player-of-the-Year. He also was an all-conference forward in basketball and a pole vaulter in track.

PERSONAL: Full name is David Eric Jakob. He has an older brother. Jakob is enrolled in the marketing option of the College of Business Administration.

player that comes here as a freshman has great high school statistics, so I really didn't expect to start. Even though I had a successful high school career, I knew I still had to continue to work hard. I just wanted to work hard and do the best I could. If that happened, I believed that things would take care of themselves."

— Dave Jakob.

"One of the big differences between offense and defense is the mental approach. When I came back to tight end [from line-backer], I tried to bring some of the toughness aspect with me... Some defensive teachings have helped me at tight end. If I have to block an inside linebacker, I know some of the techniques they like to use."

No. 57 SEAN LOVE 6-3 255 9-6-68 Junior Guard Tamaqua, Pa.

In his first full spring as an offensive lineman, Sean Love proved he's been paying attention to his lessons by moving up the final depth chart to No. 2 at long guard behind senior Dave Szott. Love moved to offense from defensive tackle in the spring of 1988. LION CAREER: 1988-Rucci served as a member of the foreign team his freshman year and did not see game action, thus retaining freshman eligibility for 1989.

HIGH SCHOOL: Rucci was a "sleeper" coming out of Upper Darby HS, after opting not to play football his junior year. An all-state pick his senior season, he was selected for the Big 33 game after posting 55 tackles, 13 quarterback sacks, five fumble recoveries and one interception.

PERSONAL: Full name is Todd L. Rucci. Rucci, who has two older brothers, is enrolled in the Division of Undergraduate

No. 19 TONY SACCA 6-5 202 4-17-70 Sophomore Quarterback Delran, N.J.

Armed with more experience than any sophomore quarterback before him during the Joe Paterno-era, Tony Sacca enters the 1989 campaign as one of three candidates for the starting spot. As preparations for the fall campaign opened, Sacca virtually was locked in a tight duel with Tom Bill for the starting job. In the Blue-White game, he completed four-of-11 pass attempts for 32 yards and one touchdown and was intercepted twice.

LION CAREER: 1988-Injuries hastened Sacca's debut. Deep down on the depth chart when he reported for fall practice. he became the first freshman starter at quarterback in Joe Paterno's 23 years as head coach, when he opened at Temple. Sacca moved from fourth to firststring when all three men ahead of him [Tom Bill, Lance Lonergan, Doug Sieg] were idled by injuries. For the season, Sacca appeared in nine games, making five starts before Lonergan returned to take the No. 1 job for the final three weeks. Sacca finished with 54 completions in 146 attempts for 821 yards and four touchdowns. He was intercepted five times. His longest pass came in his first start — a 60-yard touchdown toss to Michael Timpson at Temple. He had a 68-yard scoring strike to Timpson at Alabama wiped out by a holding penalty. Sacca became the first Lion freshman to pass for more than 200 yards, when he finished with 215 against Syracuse. His total offense against the Orange [208] also is a Lion freshman record. Sacca's high for attempts was 33 vs. Cincinnati; for completions 15 vs. Syracuse. He had a 26-yard run against Cincinnati and gained 138 yards overall, but lost 150 for a rushing net of minus-12.

HIGH SCHOOL: Regarded as one of the nation's premier quarterbacks coming out of Delran HS, Sacca was named to three All-American teams [Parade, USA Today, Scholastic Coach] after completing 96-of-176 attempts for 1,665 yards and 24 touchdowns as a senior. He also tallied seven touchdowns rushing. The Philadelphia Inquirer Player-of-the-Year and an all-state selection, Sacca directed Delran to an 11-0 mark and the group II state championship.

PERSONAL: Full name is Anthony John Sacca. Sacca, who has two brothers and a sister, is enrolled in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "It's very difficult to tell how last season affected Tony one way or the other. He is a low-key kid who doesn't really express how he feels. If I had to guess, I think it was a good experience for him. I think he feels much more confident in himself that he can do as well as he did last year with as little work as he had. I don't see any problem with the fact that he had to go into a tough situation last year. As I said then, and I will say again, I thought he did a super job for a kid we didn't spend a lot of time training, because we never thought he would have to play."

Joe Paterno.

"I felt [last season] was a good experience. We didn't do real well, but from my standpoint, I thought it gave me a lot of experience which I can take into this season. It was tough, but I wanted to play. No one comes to college and wants to sit out." — Tony Sacca.

No. 5 BOBBY SAMUELS 6-0 180 2-3-70 Sophomore Tailback Farrell, Pa.

Bobby Samuels demonstrated his versatility by lining up in the backfield and as a kick returner in the Blue-White game. One of the most prized prospects in Penn State's stable of fleet young ballcarriers, he gained 53 yards on 11 carries and scored a touchdown on a four-yard run. Samuels also exhibited speed and agility returning two kickoffs 56 yards. He is expected to make his presence felt in the rushing attack this fall.

end of the year.

HIGH SCHOOL: At Farrell HS, Samuels gained more than 2,600 yards rushing and scored 41 TDs. He was a first-team All-Pennsylvania pick and made the All-America teams of Parade Magazine, Scholastic Coach and USA Today. ness Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Someday, if he'll work on the weights, Bobby can be a 200-pound running back. He has a great future. Bobby is not a strong blocker because he has never done a lot of blocking. He is tough, has good shock and I think eventually will be a fine blocker. He's also an awfully good pass receiver." — Joe Paterno.

Rick Sayles played a prominent role in the defensive scheme during spring drills. The sophomore will look to carry on the Penn State linebacking tradition as a key reserve this fall. His size [6-5] and maneuverability make him an outstanding prospect. He is listed behind Andre Collins and Neil Hamilton on the depth chart at inside linebacker.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state selection as a linebacker at McKeesport HS his senior season, Sayles registered 17 quarterback sacks during his last two years of play. Selected for the Big 33 game, he was named to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Fabulous 22 team. Sayles also played tight end and defensive end. PERSONAL: Full name is Lysle Richard Sayles. No. 75
RICH SCHONEWOLF
6-4 259 12-19-66
Senior
Defensive Tackle
Philadelphia, Pa.

Any listing of the top defensive linemen in the East is incomplete without mentioning the Lions' Rich Schonewolf. The coaching staff looks forward to Schonewolf becoming a dominating defender in his second season as a starter. He had an extremely impressive spring and easily turned back all challengers to his incumbent position as the No. 1 defensive right tackle. He applied a heavy pass rush in the Blue-White game, recording two quarterback sacks to go with three unassisted tackles.

LION CAREER: 1988-Schonewolf topped all down linemen in tackles with 42, which ranked eighth on the defense. He had 24 solos and 18 assists. Schonewolf also topped the defense in fumble recoveries with four. To round out his statistical summary, he had three sacks and a share of another, made five stops behind the line of scrimmage for 15 yards in losses, forced a pair of fumbles and deflected two passes. He started 10 of 11 games, missing only the Rutgers game, when the Lions opened with an extra linebacker. He totaled 609 downs on defense, a figure topped by only three others. 1987-The highlight of Schonewolf's season was his first collegiate touchdown, which came at Syracuse when he blocked a punt, scooped up the loose ball and returned it 52 yards for a score in the fourth quarter. It was Penn State's only punt block of the season. Appearing in all 11 games and the Citrus Bowl, Schonewolf won his second letter with more than 325 plays (271 on defense and 55 on special teams). He started the season-opener against Bowling Green in place of an injured Matt Johnson. Outside of the starters, no defensive lineman saw more service than Schonewolf, who was No. 2 to Johnson on the final depth chart. He made 12 solo tackles and assisted on nine others. He also recorded three quarterback sacks [vs. Boston College, Maryland, Pittsburgh). He made four tackles in three different games. 1986-Schonewolf moved back to defensive tackle after spending the 1986 spring practice with the offense and finished as the third defensive right tackle behind NFL draft selection Tim Johnson and Matt Johnson. He was listed as the third nose tackle at the beginning of fall drills. He recorded five tackles [four solo, one assist) and one sack for eight yards (against East Carolina) and was on the field enough to letter. He had two solos against the Pirates and two solos and one assist against Rutgers. 1985-Schonewolf worked with the foreign team as a defensive tackle and did not play, retaining freshman eligibility for 1986.

HIGH SCHOOL: Schonewolf earned second-team all-state laurels as an offensive guard and a defensive tackle playing for Archbishop Ryan HS. He was the team's defensive Most Valuable Player, captain and played in the Big 33 game in his senior year. He won three letters, despite not picking up the game until 10th grade. A good athlete, Schonewolf was a pitcher and third baseman for Ryan's Catholic League title team in baseball.

PERSONAL: Full name is Richard John Schonewolf. He has two brothers and two sisters. Schonewolf is following the marketing sequence in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I think Schonewolf is a good tackle, a fine player. Rich was the best defensive tackle out there [during spring ball] and really gave our offensive linemen a tough time." — Joe Paterno.

"I didn't play organized football as far as the pads and all until 10th grade. I played football in the steet, like two-hand touch, and tackle in the park." — Rich Schonewolf.

"It's always been a goal of mine to start, and you think of the tradition Penn State has. That's one of the biggest reasons I came here, because there's always a good team." — Rich Schonewolf.

No. 14 DOUG SIEG 6-6½ 215 1-18-69 Junior Quarterback Bellefonte, Pa.

Persistent back woes have haunted Doug Sieg in his two previous seasons. Sieg missed all of spring practice when he had back surgery for a second time, making him a question mark this fall. Sieg made a rapid comeback from a back operation last fall and got into the season finale at Notre Dame. If he's healthy, Sieg's talent can't be overlooked in the quarterback derby.

LION CAREER: 1988-Back surgery threatened to erase Sieg's season, but he made a remarkable recovery and was back on the sidelines by the Cincinnati game. He played one play at Notre Dame where his only pass attempt was intercepted. Sieg missed the 1988 Blue-White game with back spasms. 1987-Although he traveled with the team, Sieg did not see any game action. He was the fourth quarterback, but at one point was the lone backup to Matt Knizner when injuries felled Lance Lonergan and Tom Bill. HIGH SCHOOL: A third-team all-state and a Big 33 choice, Sieg led Bellefonte to a 10-1 mark in his senior year and both the Big 8 and Central County League championships. A three-year letterman in football and basketball, Sieg was 6-of-9 for 115 yards and one touchdown and almost engineered a come-from-behind victory in the Big 33 game. Also selected to play in the Mid-State Classic, Sieg passed for 2,780 yards and 22 TDs in his career.

PERSONAL: Full name is Douglas Bloom Sieg. One of his two brothers, Andy, played lacrosse for Penn State. Sieg is following the real estate program in the College of Business Administration.

No. 76
PAUL SIEVER
6-4½ 260 8-10-69
Junior Tackle
Coatesville, Pa.

Paul Siever and Matt McCartin waged a spirited spring contest for the No. 1 assignment at long tackle. McCartin was a narrow choice on the concluding depth chart, but Siever was just a step behind. Siever spent his spring a year ago at center and, with a full off-season at tackle, should make some giant strides in 1989. Siever worked at long tackle for the White team in the spring game, helping to establish a running game that gained 218 yards.

LION CAREER: 1988-One of the young offensive linemen who got a good look, Siever logged a total of 67 plays in appearances against Virginia, Temple, Cincinnati and Maryland. He got a good workout in the Virginia and Cincinnati contests in particular. Siever ended the year No. 2 behind Tim Freeman at short side tackle. 1987-Siever worked with the foreign team as an offensive lineman, but did not see action, retaining freshman eligibility for 1988.

No. 35
MIKE SMITH
6-1½ 184 1-6-69
Junior Safety
Juniata Valley, Pa.

Mike Smith is in line for significant playing time as a backup to safety Sherrod Rainge. He made his presence felt in the annual Blue-White game, recording four solo tackles and two assists.

LION CAREER: 1988-Smith suited up for the six home games and traveled on four road trips, but did not see action. As a member of the foreign team, he spent time working at the hero position.

HIGH SCHOOL: A three-sport standout at Juniata Valley HS, Smith earned 12 letters and served as captain of the football, basketball and track teams. An allconference and all-county tailback and linebacker, he was selected to compete in the Mid-State all-star game his senior season, when he gained 1,100 all-purpose yards. WTAJ-TV of Altoona (Pa.) honored Smith by naming him its "Offensive Player-of-the-Year." As a forward and point guard in basketball, Smith scored over 720 career points. Following his senior season, he was named to the Juniata Valley League all-star team. In track, Smith qualified for the state championships four consecutive years. He competed in four events his senior year, placing second in the 110-meter hurdles and third in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles. A member of the National Honor Society, Smith also participated in the triple jump and ran in the 4×100 relay.

PERSONAL: Full name is Michael Charles

Smith. He is majoring in landscape contracting. Smith has three older sisters and one younger sister.

No. 8
TERRY SMITH
5-8 150 7-29-69
Junior Flanker
Monroeville, Pa.

Don't let Terry Smith's size fool you. This redshirt junior is a big talent. Smith aims to gain the flanker spot left vacant by the departure of Michael Timpson and he staked a persuasive claim this spring by winding up No. 1 at the position. Smith had a punt return for six yards in the spring game, but didn't catch a pass. Based on flashes from last season, Smith appears to have exciting potential as both a pass receiver and a return man.

LION CAREER: 1988-Smith came up big at West Virginia, making four receptions for 84 yards, including a 40-yard TD connection with Lance Lonergan. The four receptions tied the freshman record [Kenny Jackson caught four on three occasions in 1980]. Smith was the No. 3 receiver in total playing time (229 plays). He averaged an excellent 18.9 yards per catch (151 yards, 8 catches) and started one game [at West Virginia]. He was the No. 2 punt returner with six returns for 32 yards and a long of 11 yards. 1987-Smith worked with the foreign team as a wide receiver and also with the special teams. He did not play and retained freshman eligibility for 1988.

AAAA Eastern Player-of-the-Year, Smith quarterbacked Gateway HS to the league title that season, scoring his team's only touchdown against North Hills after tying North Hills for the title his junior year. Smith was a member of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Fabulous 22 and the Pittsburgh Press Finest 44 as well as a second-tearn all-state selection. In the Big 33 game, he caught five passes for 122 yards and a touchdown. Gateway was 24-1-1 in his career as he amassed the following statistics: 812 yards passing, 567 yards rushing and six interceptions. He also captained the basketball team as a senior.

PERSONAL: Full name is Terry Maurice Smith. He has an older brother and sister. His brother, Harvey, Jr., played football for West Virginia and his father, Harvey, Sr., played basketball at Penn State. Smith is enrolled in the College of Business Administration where he hopes to pursue a degree in management.

QUDTE, UNQUOTE: "Terry is a fine prospect who does things very well. He is not the biggest kid in the world, but he can jump and has great quickness and good hands. Hs is competitive. Terry certainly has a bright future." — Joe Paterno.

DAVE SZOTT
6-4 250 12-12-67
Senior
Nose Tackle
Clifton, N.J.

A bulwark of the defensive line in 1988, Dave Szott was on the move during spring practice. The senior letterman found himself back on offense after two years at nose tackle. He was quick to again grasp the offensive assignments and advanced to the head of the class at the long guard position by the end of the spring. While his previous starting experience is on defense, Szott is expected to help stabilize an inexperienced offensive line this fall.

LION CAREER: 1988-In his second letter-winning season, Szott opened on the nose in all 11 games. He wound up with 545 downs, ranking him No. 7 on the defense in playing time. Szott was right behind Rich Schonewolf in tackles with 41 and was No. 2 behind Quintus McDonald in tackles for losses with seven. Szott registered 15 solo stops and 26 assists. He had one quarterback sack and recovered one enemy fumble. Szott had six tackles, his season-high, in both the Temple and Pittsburgh games. He had four solo stops against Rutgers. 1987-Immediately prior to the start of the season, Szott was moved from offensive guard to defensive tackle when injuries cut into the defensive ranks. He appeared in 10 games as well as the Citrus Bowl. With 186 plays [17 on special teams], Szott earned his first letter. He made seven solo tackles - two each vs. Bowling Green, Syracuse, Maryland and one vs. Alabama. He had a sack for a 10-yard loss against Maryland. 1986-Szott worked his way up to the No. 2 short guard slot behind Steve Wisniewski by the Fiesta Bowl. He played 36 offensive downs and was a member of the traveling squad.

HIGH SCHOOL: Szott earned All-American honors as an offensive guard and as a heavyweight in wrestling for Clifton HS. He won three letters in football and Clifton was the league champion in his junior and senior seasons. Following his senior year as captain, he played on the winning North team in the New Jersey all-star game. A four-year letterman in wrestling, Szott was captain as a junior and senior. He compiled a 109-8 career record and placed fourth in the 1986 national junior freestyle tournament. Clifton won three group 4 state titles during his career.

PERSONAL: Full name is David Andrew Szott. Szott, who has two older brothers, is a political science major in the College of the Liberal Arts.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Dave is more of a natural offensive player than he is a defensive player. He is very smooth and does things very well on the run. I think he is going to be an outstanding guard for us, playing the spot that Steve Wisniewski played last year." — Joe Paterno.

"In the long run, I will probably make a better offensive guard than nose guard. The techniques are a lot different. As a nose guard, you have to play recklessly.

SZOTT continued:

As an offensive player, you have to know about 10 different things for each play. It takes a while to get used to playing on offense." — Dave Szott.

No. 10 RAY TARASI 6-0 184 6-8-67 Senior Kicker Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ray Tarasi provided one of the highlights of the Blue-White game with a 49-yard field goal for the Blue team that, had it been in the regular-season, would have been the longest of his Penn State career. Tarasi and Henry Adkins were neckand-neck for the kicking job during spring drills and are expected to resume their spirited competition in the fall.

LION CAREER: 1988-Tarasi was the top scorer among Penn State placement specialists with 40 points. Overall, he ranked No. 3 in scoring behind Gary Brown and Sam Gash. Tarasi connected on 7-of-14 field goal attempts and was perfect on 19 PATs. His longest field goal was 37 yards vs. Boston College. On kicks from 20-39 yards, he was 7-of-9 for an exceptional 78 percent. He missed all five of his attempts from 40-49 yards and had two blocked. 1987-Used primarily as the kickoff man, Tarasi was pressed into PAT and field goal service for three games, when Eric Etze was hurt. He was perfect on seven PATs and 1-for-5 on field goal tries. He hit a 33-yard field goal just before halftime of the West Virginia game. His field goal attempts of 20 and 38 yards at Pittsburgh were blocked. 1986-Tarasi, as a freshman, was the No. 2 kicker behind Massimo Manca. He was involved in two special teams plays as a kickoff specialist. He added PATs in the Rutgers and Syracuse games.

No. 32 BLAIR THOMAS 5-11 190 10-7-67 Senior Tailback Philadelphia, Pa.

The good news came January 11, 1989. Blair Thomas, one of the nation's most gifted running backs, announced his intention to return to Penn State for his final season of eligibility. Thomas sat out the 1988 campaign to recover from knee surgery. The fifth-year senior from Philadelphia was a full participant in spring practice although he did not join any of the contact drills. Thomas did everything else ball-handling drills, team work against dummies, all of the agility and stamina programs. Expectations are that Thomas will be back at 100 percent this fall when he hopefully can pick up where he left off in 1987, when he gained 214 yards in his final game of the year, a nationally-televised victory over Notre Dame. Thomas is a top candidate for post-season honors. He enters the 1989 season ranked No. 11 on the Lions' all-time rushing list with 1,960 yards and seventh on the career chart for all-purpose vardage with 2,977 as a rusher, receiver (359) and returner [658]. He enters the campaign with eight 100-yard games. Thomas was voted the Nittany Lions' 1989 offensive captain by his teammates at the conclusion of spring practice.

LION CAREER: 1988-Thomas missed all of the season while recovering from knee surgery. He suffered the injury on Dec. 9, 1987, in an informal workout prior to the Citrus Bowl and was operated on at the Hershey [Pa.] Medical Center on Jan. 11, 1988. The procedure was described as an arthroscopic reconstruction of the anterior cruciate ligament. 1987-Voted first-team All-East and third-team All-America by the Associated Press, Thomas rushed for 1,414 yards in 1987 — the third-best season total in Penn State history. He also caught 23 passes for 300 yards, returned four kickoffs for 58 yards and scored 13 TDs [11 rushing, 2 receiving]. His all-purpose yardage total of 1,772 is a Penn State record and computed to an average of 161.09 per game, ranking him eighth in 1987 among Division 1-A leaders in that category. He also was seventh in rushing with an average of 128.55 yards per game. In Penn State history, only Lydell Mitchell (1,567 in 1971) and Heisman Trophy-winner John Cappelletti [1,522 in 1973) have rushed for more yards in a season than Thomas. His 268 rushing attempts are second only to Cappelletti's record 286 carries in 1973. Thomas finished with seven 100-yard games, highlighted by a career-high 214 yards (on 35 carries) vs. Notre Dame. With one 100yard outing as a sophomore, Thomas has gained 100 or better eight times and the Lions are 8-0 in those contests. Thomas' longest run of the season was 58 yards at Maryland and his busiest afternoon was against West Virginia when he was called upon 36 times [for 181 yards]. He rushed for three touchdowns in the win over Rutgers and two in the Temple victory. The team's top pass receiver, Thomas caught two TD passes - a screen that went for 67 yards, his longest reception of the season, vs. Bowling Green and a 40-yard pass-run play at Boston College. He had a season-high six receptions vs. West Virginia and a tops of 78 receiving yards vs. Bowling Green. Only twice [vs. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh] did Thomas fail to catch at least one pass. His best offensive vardage total was 259 vs. Temple, a figure that included 167 on 24 rushing attempts, 51 on three pass receptions and 41 yards on three kickoff returns, including his longest return of the season - 21 yards. After averaging 31.92 yards on 12 kickoff returns as a sophomore, Thomas had only four opportunities in limited use as a returner. 1986-While Thomas ranked No. 3 in rushing yards, he turned in an impressive array of the season's biggest plays, including the longest run in Penn State history (92 yards vs. Syracuse) and a 91-yard kickoff return for a touchdown vs. Pittsburgh. Thomas also set a Penn State record for season rushing average with his mark of 8.4 yards per attempt. The old mark of 8.0 was established by Lenny Moore in 1954. Thomas had his biggest rushing day against Syracuse, ripping off 132 yards on only three carries, an average of 44 yards per attempt. His next best performance was vs. East Carolina, when he carried nine times, gained 67 yards and scored two touchdowns. He also pulled the Lions back from the brink of defeat against Cincinnati when he caught a 32-yard pass from John Shaffer in a critical third-and-10 situation in the fourth quarter. He followed that with a five-yard run and a 27-yard gallop that accounted for 64 of the 75 yards in the winning touchdown march. Thomas was No. 2 in the nation in kickoff returns with an average of 31.92 yards on 12 returns [behind Terrance Roulhac of Clemson at 33.01. He caught only seven passes, but there was none bigger than his grab against Cincinnati. He missed the Maryland game with an injury, but appeared in the 10 other outings, winding up with 167 total plays, 37 of them in special teams situations. He had one carry [for a loss of three yards) in the Fiesta Bowl, but did handle two kickoffs, recording returns of 39 and 21 yards. 1985-The No. 4 tailback as a freshman, Thomas had 14 rushes for 42 yards. He made an immediate impact, however, as a kickoff returner, ranking among the nation's best with a 24.1 average on nine tries. His longest return was a 58-yarder against Temple.

HIGH SCHOOL: In a record-shattering three-year career at Frankford HS. Thomas rushed for nearly 4,000 yards [3,941] and tied a Public League career record with 59 touchdowns. His yardage total broke the previous Philadelphia record by nearly 800 yards. In his senior season alone, Thomas rushed for 1,551 vards and scored 24 TDs. He was a firstteam all-state choice and made the Adidas/Scholastic Coach All-American team. Thomas also made his mark as a track star. A hamstring injury scratched him from the sprints, but Thomas picked up the shotput and, despite no previous experience, won the Public League championship.

PERSONAL: Full name is Blair Lamar Thomas. He is the youngest in a family of five children. He is a recreation and parks major in the College of Health and Human Development.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "I feel I need another year to perform up to my capabilities and show everybody that once you've had an injury like this you can come back and perform the way you did before the injury." - Blair Thomas.

"Blair's return means more to us than just his physical ability. He is a very committed young man. We have not had anybody on this campus in the forty years I have been here who works any harder, practices any harder, has been more committed, more loval and who is better liked than Blair Thomas. His return means a great deal to the intangible part of our football team." - Joe Paterno.

(On how he staved involved while injured) "Once you get hurt, a lot of people forget about you, but you just have to accept that. What I would try to do with the younger guys is try to motivate them so I could stay in the game. I would try to talk to them and tell them things they were doing wrong and things that, hopefully, could help them so that I could stay focused and keep my mind in the game." Blair Thomas.

(On Thomas' spring practice) "Blair did everything this spring except contact work. He's participated in all the drills when we've gone against dummies, but I didn't think there was any sense scrimmaging him. We'll get him in a couple of good workouts in preseason and he'll be OK. He looks as if he's 100 percent, but you never know until he gets banged around a little bit . . . He's a great example for all of the young players who thought they knew what 100 percent. was. He set a whole different tempo for the running backs. They've all learned from just being around Blair." - Joe Paterno.

[On his decision to return] "A lot of things came into effect. One of the main reasons why I made this decision is my mother. She really wanted me to come back. Another reason was graduation. I could have graduated at the end of the summer, but I think I'll stretch it out and graduate at the end of December. It will make things a little easier for me as far as taking classes. I won't have to take a heavy load." - Blair Thomas.

"When I had little minor injuries before and would start playing again, they would never affect me. I'm looking at this injury the same way. I'm going to go out with the same attitude — that I never had an injury and I'm just going to go out there and perform.'' — Blair Thomas.

No. 25
WILLIE THOMAS
5-9 175 12-8-69
Junior Cornerback
Coral Springs, Fla.

For someone who looks so young, Willie Thomas is a seasoned veteran in the revamped defensive secondary. Only senior Sherrod Rainge has played more than Thomas, a letterman in each of his first two seasons and already a starter in 10 regular-season games. Thomas was troubled by an assortment of nagging injuries during spring drills, but held on to his No. 1 status at right cornerback, Thomas, a question mark before the kickoff, came up big in the Blue-White game with five tackles (three solo). He also broke up four passes and had an interception.

LION CAREER: 1988-A defensive reqular for eight weeks, Thomas appeared in 10 games, missing only the finale at Notre Dame. He topped the Lions in passes defensed [13] and was credited with 18 tackles [15 solo]. He intercepted a pass and returned it 19 yards for a touchdown in the win over Cincinnati. Thomas also scored a touchdown in the Temple game, when he recovered the ball after a punt block by Andre Collins and scampered 25 yards to paydirt. Thomas had a season-high of six tackles against Syracuse. 1987-After earning time early as a special teams performer, Thomas proved his ability with starts in the final two games against Notre Dame and Pittsburgh in place of the injured Eddie Johnson. He was one of five "true" freshmen to earn a letter. He was on the field for 305 plays [186 defensively and 119 on special teams) and registered 17 tackles and five passes broken up. In his second start at Pittsburgh, he forced a fumble and racked up 11 tackles.

HIGH SCHOOL: Thomas, who played quarterback for J.P. Taravella HS, earned all-state honors in his senior season. The Ft. Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel and Miami Herald Dade County Player-of-the-Year, Thomas was an honorable-mention All-American choice by Adidas and USA Today. His team won district and regional titles in his senior year and totaled a 17-1 mark with Thomas at quarterback. As a senior, he registered 1,078 yards rushing with 14 scores and 806 yards passing. For his career, he ran for 1,798 yards and 19 TDs and threw for 1,367 yards.

PERSONAL: Full name is William E. Thomas. Thomas, who has an older brother, is enrolled in the finance option of the College of Business Administration. QUOTE, UNQUOTE: [On the difference between Penn State and high school]: "I think the biggest difference is the competition. In high school, you have three or four guys who are really good, but here you have forty or fifty that are outstanding. ... Academically, it is so much tougher, too. I find I have to work a lot harder here than in high school to do well." — Willie Thomas.

[On Florida players]: "There are a lot of talented players in Florida. It helps when you have five or so players (from Florida), because when we recruit there next, we'll have a stronger chance of bringing a few more guys up [here]." — Willie Thomas.

No. 44 LEROY THOMPSON 5-11 204 2-3-69 Junior Tailback Knoxville, Tenn.

With Blair Thomas restricted to noncontact drills, Leroy Thompson handled No. 1 tailback duties for most of the spring scrimmages. On the final depth chart, Thompson and Sean Redman, who missed all of the spring with a toe injury, shared the No. 2 spot behind Thomas. Thompson had a strong performance in the Blue-White game, pacing the rushing offense of the victorious Blue team with 85 yards on 13 carries, including a 17yard run and a touchdown. He also caught a pair of passes for 13 yards.

LION CAREER: 1988-The No. 2 rusher with 401 yards on 108 carries, Thompson started two games at tailback (Rutgers. Alabama), appeared in all 11 outings and ranked behind only John Greene and Gary Brown in total offensive plays for a running back [304]. In addition to his rushing yards, Thompson also chipped in 65 yards receiving and 264 more on 14 kickoff returns, ranking him No. 2 in allpurpose vardage with 730 yards, an average of more than 60 per game. Thompson had his most active day at West Virginia, carrying the ball a career-high 15 times for 74 yards, his best total in two seasons. He had 56 vards against Boston College and topped the 40-yard mark against Maryland (40) and Notre Dame [47]. His long kickoff return was 29 yards. 1987-The coveted tailback saved his biggest performance for the Citrus Bowl, winning a media vote as the Lions' offensive Most Valuable Player. Sharing tailback duties with Gary Brown in place of the injured Thomas, Thompson accumulated 201 all-purpose yards, including Citrus and Penn State bowl records for kickoff returns [6] and a Lion mark for kickoff return yardage [127]. He was Penn State's top rusher with 55 yards on six tries and had the team's longest run [24 yards]. He also caught three passes. In nine regular-season games, Thompson rushed 20 times for 57 yards. He led in kickoff returns with 10 for 245 vards (24.5 average). Against West Virginia, Thompson's returns were pivotal to Penn State's comeback victory. He had consecutive kickoff returns of 28 and 35 yards, the latter leading to a Blair Thomas touchdown that pulled the Lions back into the game. In all, Thompson had four returns for 99 yards vs. the Mountaineers. His best game of the regularseason was his first — vs. Bowling Green when he carried 10 times for 36 vards.

HIGH SCHOOL: Thompson's credentials quickened the pulses of college recruiters from coast to coast. In a storybook career at Austin-East HS, Thompson piled up 5,682 rushing yards, added 1,531 yards on pass receptions, scored 95 touchdowns and made 41 pass interceptions. He won election to All-America teams selected by USA Today, Parade Magazine, Coach and Athlete, and Scholastic Coach. He was twice an All-Tennessee choice and was the state's Player-ofthe-Year. His team was 50-5 during Thompson's career. A guard in basketball, Thompson was an all-state pick and most valuable player in the 1985 Tennessee state tournament. He also was an all-state sprinter in track.

PERSONAL: Full name is Ulys Leroy Thompson. He has two older brothers and a younger sister. Thompson is a communications major who has ambitions for a career as a sportscaster.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "Leroy is a much better back now than he was. He is not wasting yards and has worked hard on his blocking. He also has caught the ball very well. Leroy and Gary [Brown] are both much better football players right now. They are more physical, both running the ball and blocking." — Joe Paterno.

[On the teammate who's taught him the most] "Blair [Thomas], without question. As soon as I arrived, he took me under his wing. He got me through tough times when I wanted to give up. He worked on the fundamentals with me and reminded me that I wasn't the only one making mistakes. When I'm down, I go to Blair."— Leroy Thompson.

"I have a new attitude. I promised myself to go out and make myself the best I can, listen to what the coaches say and live by it. At times last year, I was worried more about how many yards, touchdowns, starts, etc. This year I'm focused on the team and its success." — Leroy Thompson.

JERROD VANCE
6-1 235 7-12-68
Junior Guard
Massillon, Ohio

A year ago in spring practice, Jerrod Vance was coping with the anxiety of moving from linebacker to offensive guard. Clearly comfortable in his new surroundings this spring, Vance showed great improvement and wound up No. 2 behind Ed Monaghan on the final depth chart. Vance missed much of the Blue-White game with an early injury, but, if he returns in good health this fall as expected, he could give Monaghan a run for the starting spot at short guard.

plays in six games as a reserve at short guard. He saw service against Virginia, Boston College, Rutgers, Temple, Cincinnati and Syracuse with his most significant stint at Temple. A converted linebacker, Vance was bracketed behind Bob Vernaglia and Ed Monaghan on the depth chart. 1987-Vance toiled with the foreign team and maintained freshman eligibility for 1988.

HIGH SCHOOL: At Washington HS, Vance was the leading tackler as a line-backer in his junior and senior seasons. Washington was 25-8 in his three letterwinning seasons. He captained the team in his senior year and was a member of the victorious North team in the Ohio all-star game.

PERSONAL: Full name is Jerrod Allen Vance. He has an older sister and a younger brother. Vance is enrolled in the College of Health and Human Development.

No. 82
JOHN WOLFE
6-2 221 7-11-68
Senior
Outside Linebacker
Monaca, Pa.

An epidemic of injuries at outside linebacker triggered the move of John Wolfe from tight end and the senior showed sufficient proficiency at the new position to move up behind Brian Chizmar on the final spring depth chart. Wolfe had a pair of unassisted tackles in the Blue-White game, playing as a backup to Geoff Japchen for the White squad. One of the brightest students on the team, Wolfe adapts easily and could return to tight end in the fall if the situation dictates.

LION CAREER: 1988-Starter Dave Jakob was the only tight end with more playing time than Wolfe. Wolfe appeared in all 11 games and wound up with 211 plays. He caught four passes for 19 yards with receptions against Rutgers, Cincinnati, Alabama and Maryland. His nineyard catch vs. Maryland was his longest of the season. In the 1988 Blue-White game, Wolfe caught five balls for 50 yards. 1987-In three games, Wolfe logged 33 plays, including 10 as a member of the special teams, before a broken collarbone brought his season to an end. He made two receptions for 20 yards: vs. Bowling Green (8 yards) and Cincinnati [12 yards]. Wolfe led the White team in receiving with five catches for 80 yards, including one touchdown, in the Blue-White game, 1986-Wolfe was on the foreign team as a tight end and did not see game action, retaining freshman eligibility.

HIGH SCHOOL: A first-team all-state choice at Monaca HS, Wolfe received the 1985 Thom McAnn Award, given to the top scholar-athlete in the WPIAL. He caught 36 passes for 646 yards and three touchdowns his senior year to win WPIAL class A Player-of-the-Year honors. He played in the 1986 Big 33 game and scored a touchdown for the winning Pennsylvania squad. Wolfe graduated No. 1 in his class with a 4.0 academic average. PERSONAL: Full name is John Thomas PERSONAL: Full name is John Thomas Wolfe. Wolfe, who has an older sister, is a finance major in the College of Business Administration.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: 'John probably was not big enough or strong enough to be a really effective tight end. He has trouble staying at 220 pounds and most of the tight ends today are 235 or 240 to block those big outside linebackers. John has athletic abilities that indicate he could be an outside linebacker. He has good size, runs decently, he's smart and he's tough. I really think he likes playing over there [at linebacker]." — Joe Paterno.

Coaches

Joe Paterno Head Coach

Joe Paterno's tenure as a football coach at Penn State dates from the Presidency of Harry S. Truman.

The Brooklyn-born Paterno, who put a law career on hold in 1950 to follow his college coach, Rip Engle, to University Park, marks his 40th year as a member of the Nittany Lions' athletic staff this fall. From 1950-65, Paterno was a Penn State assistant coach; he has been the Lions' head coach since 1966.

While Paterno admits he didn't expect to be in one place so long, the man and the institution have grown and prospered over the past four decades.

Paterno has guided the football program to 212 victories, 19 bowl appearances, two National Championships and a level of popularity that has produced 65 consecutive sellouts of 83,370-seat Beaver Stadium and nearly 100 appearances on national television.

As co-chairman of the "Campaign for Penn State," he also has been a key player in a major philanthropic effort that has raised more than $250 million to enhance the University's academic programs.

"Joe Paterno is widely known for the outstanding coaching record he has built over a career of nearly 40 years," Penn State President Bryce Jordan said. "He is less known for the dedication and commitment he has demonstrated to this University and, more broadly, to higher education in general."

Paterno has received many unique distinctions in his career in athletics, but probably none more unusual than last August, when he was asked to second the nomination of President George Bush at the Republican National Convention.

"I thought it was an honor for me and my family, an honor for Penn State and an honor for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," Paterno said.

Paterno's stature has been enhanced by the success of his football teams, but it also is a reflection of his reputation for integrity, for graduating the athletes who enter his program and for facing the tough issues squarely and honestly.

The late Bobby Dodd, head football coach at Georgia Tech from 1945-66 and one of the acknowledged giants of the profession, said of Paterno:

"He runs a program just like I hoped I ran. He graduates players. He treats 'em good. He runs a good sideline... He has a good football team every year, and he's a class guy. He also stands for something in football that I stood for: honesty. He'd never buy a football player in a million years."

During a White House visit to salute the 1986 Penn State National Championship team, President Ronald Reagan said Paterno was "one of the greatest coaches ever in college sports."

And not, the President hastened to add, merely because of the accomplishments of his teams. "... I say he's one of the best because, while accumulating all of those honors and records, he's never forgotten that, first and foremost, he's a teacher who's preparing his students not just for the season, but for life."

The teacher role is one that Paterno himself embraces.

"I would prefer to be thought of as an educator rather than a coach," Paterno has said.

Paterno's wishes notwithstanding, his reputation as a football coach is difficult to shake. He enters the 1989 season with 212 career victories [vs. 54 losses and two ties], which ranks him No. 6 on the list of lifetime major college coaching leaders. He is second only to Bo Schembechler of Michigan in total victories among active coaches.

With a 23-year winning percentage of .795, Paterno trails just one current Division I-A coach — Tom Osborne of Nebraska (.811).

Paterno also has few peers when it comes to post-season play. The legendary Bear Bryant is the lone coach to appear in more bowl games [29 for Bryant, 19 for Paterno] and record more bowl victories [15 for Bryant, 12 for Paterno]. Paterno-coached teams have registered six undefeated seasons and two have won National Championships in this decade [1982, 1986].

Paterno has had a hand in developing more than 50 first-team All-Americans and sent over 100 players to the National Football League. One of his products, linebacker Jack Ham, was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1988. Ham, an All-American who went on to All-Pro glory with the Pittsburgh Steelers, asked Paterno to introduce him at the induction ceremony in Canton, Ohio.

"The reason Joe presented me is because when you're an 18 or 19-year-old kid going to college, you can go in a lot of different directions. Joe got me going the right way. He made sure that I realized it was your education, your family and then football," Ham said.

"I liked the way he ran his program — no athletic dorms, he didn't make football players bigger than life. He made me realize that football was not the most important thing in my life. I was fortunate to be in his program for four years. It took me about five seconds to decide on Joe Paterno to present me," Ham concluded.

While uneasy in the spotlight, Paterno finds it hard to avoid. He is widely sought as a speaker for clinics and banquets. He has appeared in newspaper, magazine, radio and television advertisements for companies like Bell of Pennsylvania and American Express.

There has been a "Joe Paterno Look-

A-Like" contest at Homecoming each of the last two years ["I don't know why anyone would want to win," he says] and there is an entire line of Paterno merchandise, including life-sized cutouts ["Cardboard Joe" or "Joe-to-Go"] and golf balls featuring his photograph. There even is a "Peachy Paterno" ice cream that is one of the big sellers at the Penn State Creamery.

This past off-season, Paterno made a conscious effort to limit his schedule and to spend more time around his players and coaches.

"My biggest job is to get some control of my schedule so I'm around here when there are some problems," Paterno said. "I've got to spend more time with these kids and get to know which of them are the right kind of people."

His success already has brought Paterno an overflowing chest of trophies and awards. In 1987, he was named recipient of the 30th Gold Medal of the Society of Pennsylvania. He also was the choice of the New York Athletic Club as its "Amateur Sportsman-of-the-Year." The Lion head coach won election as well to the Orange Bowl Hall of Honor, along with one of his former linemen — defensive tackle Mike Reid.

As far as accolades are concerned. however, even Paterno would have a difficult time duplicating what happened to him in 1986, when he was the choice of the Football Writers Association of America as college "Coach-of-the-Year." became the first four-time winner of the Kodak Division 1-A "Coach-of-the-Year" citation presented by the membership of the American Football Coaches Association (passing three-time recipients Bear Bryant of Alabama and Darrell Royal of Texas] and was selected as "Sportsmanof-the-Year" by Sports Illustrated magazine, a distinction shared by only one other coach [John Wooden, basketball,

For all of the success the Lions have enjoyed in football, Paterno takes every bit as much pride in the academic accomplishments of his players. In his tenure as head coach, Paterno has had 19 first-team Academic All-Americans, ten Hall of Fame Scholar-Athletes and coached 13 players who won NCAA postgraduate scholarships.

"We want our players to enjoy football and their entire college experience," Paterno has said. "We want them to learn about art and literature and music and all of the other things college has to offer. College should be a great time. It is the only time a person is really free. We don't want them just tied to a football program."

"He expects a lot out of you and he demands a lot out of you," Dr. Dave Joyner, a former All-America lineman and now an orthopedic surgeon at the Hershey [Pa.] Medical Center, said in a recent interview. "His primary interest in his football players is as members of society rather than just football players. And a second notion of his, and I'm a firm believer in this... is that he wanted you to be outstanding individuals in everything you did — not just football.

"...he's a human being and he makes mistakes from time to time like anybody else," Joyner continued. "You know, little things... But people ask me 'Is he for real? Is he like what you see on TV?' And I say, 'Yes, I think he is.' I think Joe really believes everything he says. And he tries to make it all come true according to his beliefs and his values."

"I think our students understand that I want us to have a winning football team at Penn State because there is no sense in being involved in something unless you want it to be the best. But we are not going to sacrifice our academic credibility for the sake of a winning team," Paterno says.

"Joe Paterno is a 'good guy,'" Bob White, defensive co-captain of the 1986 National Championship team has said. "Not the type to put his arm around you, not the type who jokes with you, but the type who helps you, forces you, to develop to your fullest potential."

"I've tried to make sure that our kids understand that they are here to get an education, that the game is to be played to have some fun, to keep it in perspective and understand it's a game," Paterno said.

Paterno has backed up his commitment to academics with a $150,000 personal pledge for the library and minority student scholarships. The Paterno Libraries Endowment, which funds the purchase of books and materials to support a wide variety of disciplines at the University, already is well beyond its one million dollar goal. The Penn State libraries are one of six target areas of The Campaign for Penn State.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Dec. 21, 1926, Paterno attended Brooklyn Prep and Brown University, where he was quarterback of Rip Engle's football team and was described by sports writer Stanley Woodward as an athlete who "can't run and can't pass. All he can do is think and win." Paterno led Brown to a 7-2 season in 1948 and an 8-1 mark in 1949. He also played varsity basketball at Brown.

In 1950, Paterno agreed to accompany Engle to Penn State as coach of the offensive backs. After 16 years as an Engle assistant, Paterno became the Lions' head coach in 1966. He has resisted numerous overtures to move in the 23 years since, including offers to coach in professional football.

"I think if it's a question of winning and losing, football is a silly game," Paterno says. "I really believe there is something more to a college experience, and I think our players have enjoyed that approach and have gotten a great sense of their capabilities about what they can do in later life.

"It's the confidence they have gained in meeting the kind of challenge football offers. That's why I'm coaching. I think I can do some good for young people."

Paterno's support of scholarship has been widely recognized. In 1973, Penn State's seniors asked him to deliver the commencement address. He has received the Pennsylvania Award for Excellence in Athletics and been the recipient of three honorary degrees — a Doctor of Laws from Brown, a Doctor of Humane Letters from Gettysburg College and a Doctor of Laws from Allegheny College.

Paterno married the former Suzanne Pohland of Latrobe, Pa., in 1962. She's a Penn State graduate, Class of 1962. They have three children who have graduated from Penn State — daughters, Diana Lynne and Mary Kathryn, and son, David, who earned his engineering degree last May and now is doing graduate work at the University. Jay [Joseph, Jr.] currently is an undergrad at Penn State, and the youngest of the Paterno children, George Scott, attends State College Area High School.

Paterno Quotebook

On the soon-to-be published autobiography PATERNO: By the Book (with Bernie Asbell):

"I wanted to write a book that would say something. There are a lot of things that I feel are very important about what's happening in intercollegiate athletics. I wanted to share the impact some people have had on my life. This book talks about the influence our neighborhood had on us and what it was like to grow up on our street in Brooklyn. It's about my family, my mother and father, and a lot of the friends I've met along the way."

New rule that eliminates the tee for placekickers:

"It's probably bothered us more than it has bothered them [the kickers]. We're not sure what's going to happen. I'm concerned about how it is going to affect long field goals, because you can't get the ball up as high without a tee. When you start getting into the 40- or 45-yard range, kickers have a tendency to want to power the ball rather than just chip it. That means you get a lower kick and I worry about the possibility of a block."

Players leaving college early to enter the professional draft:

"I think we will see what happened with basketball. I personally believe it's about time we clear the air. I think we can smoke out some of the agents, eliminate some hanky-panky and operating out of the closet. If a kid wants to go and is good enough, I think he has every right to go and nobody should resent it. Unfortunately, there are going to be people that are going to try and convince kids that they should go when they are unprepared both physically and emotionally. I don't think we have a right to expect a kid to stay (in college]. Anybody that says it is going to ruin college football is very, very naive. If college football is that fragile, it deserves to go down the drain."

College football playoff:

"I'm for a playoff. I like to play. I like to coach Saturdays and I like big games. I certainly have never advocated we have a playoff that would hurt the bowls. I've always said the bowls would come out of this thing positively because the playoff sites would rotate and make every game a big game. The bowl people have been reluctant to accept that and I have to assume they have good reasons. While the precise format is a matter for discussion, a national playoff in college football is probably inevitable."

Paying college football players:

'I've had kids who didn't have a nickle in their pockets. I can't say here is $100 until you get straightened out. You tell me that's right. It can't be right. I'm not for buying kids, but we ought to give them a decent scholarship. A lot of us are naive. We don't realize there are academic scholarships available here and at most of the colleges in this country. Colleges will compete for a top-notch math or science student and give him or her room, board, books and tuition as well as clothing money, transportation money, what have you. Such students add to the prestige of University life. That isn't considered buying a student. If we give a football player a scholarship, we ought to give him a decent scholarship. They (football players] want to do what everybody else does and some can't afford it.'

Coach Paterno with tailback Blair Thomas at a January 11, 1989, press conference at which Thomas announced his intention to return for the 1989 season.

New muscle of Eastern football:

"I think it's good for us. It makes us better. If we want to be successful, we've got to work a little harder. We have to be better organized, do a little better job teaching. I don't think it's anything to cry about. One of the assistant coaches said last year that we are back where we were in the middle sixties — all of the tough teams are in the East. There are more good programs in the East as West Virginia proved last year and Syracuse the year before that. Whether we can stay ahead of the pack remains to be seen. We certainly aren't ahead right now, I can tell you."

Use of steroids in college sports:

"I don't think even those of us who are associated with sports realize how threatening the problem is. I can't say without reservation that we've never had a Penn State player take steroids. I'm always on our strength staff and our assistant coaches to be vigilant for the signs of steroid use. I lecture our squad on the subject regularly and we test when we have a suspicion that a kid may be a user. The tragedy is that steroid use is a growing issue among high school athletes. We're investigating the possibility of inserting a 'steroid clause' in our football game contracts, which will provide for advance testing of a specified number of each team's players. We want to assure the games are played on a level field and that one team does not have a chemical advantage."

Freshman ineligibility:

"The answer to all of the problems is to make freshmen ineligible. Then you wouldn't need (Proposition) 48, 49 or 42. Unfortunately, people do not understand the freshman problem. It is not the kids who play that are the concern; in most cases they feel pretty good about themselves. They don't have to make excuses to the people back home. It is very difficult for the other freshmen — the ones on the demonstration team or sitting on the bench — to come to grips with their situation. Their high school credentials may have been equally impressive and they may have been just as heavily recruited, but because of injuries or experienced depth at their particular position, they are not getting the same opportunity as a handful of freshman teammates. It is a very disturbing time in their lives. I spend a lot of time talking to freshmen and their parents about what their future will be at Penn State. Unfortunately, the focus is on football and not on some of the more important aspects of University life — academics, getting involved in campus activities and becoming a well-rounded college student. Those are the more compelling considerations if one is going to have a really productive college experience athletically, academically and socially."

Assistant coaches:

"People want to criticize assistant coaches. Nothing happens on the football field that doesn't have my approval. If there is blame to assess, I am the person who should be blamed and no one else. I get the credit when we win. I have been elected "Coach-of-the-Year" four times by my peers. None of my assistant coaches has been elected, but they're responsible for my being "Coach-of-the-Year." When we win, I get more credit than I deserve and when we lose I ought to get the blame. I don't think it is fair for people to be critical of the assistant coaches."

Blair Thomas:

"Blair is a very committed young man. We have not had a player in my 4D years on our campus who works any harder, practices any harder, is more committed, more loyal and better liked than Blair Thomas. His return means more to us than his exceptional physical ability. He will have an impact as well on the intangible makeup of our 1989 squad.

"Blair did everything but get tackled during spring practice. He participated in all of the ball-handling drills and all of the dummy work. I didn't think there was any sense scrimmaging him in the spring. We will get him in a couple of good workouts in the preseason and he will be OK. He looks 100 percent, but you never know until he gets banged around a little.

"Blair Thomas is Blair Thomas. He is wonderful. This spring, he was totally involved in the practices even when he didn't do any hitting. He is a great example for the young backs who thought they knew what 100 percent was, After watching Blair, they now understand 100 percent is something else. He has set a different tempo for the running backs and they've all learned from just being around Blair."

Rearranging priorities:

"That's one of the problems I've had the last two years. You get a lot of success and all of a sudden you're involved in many things that take time, whether it's fund-raising or what have you, and you get a little bit careless about the amount of time you spend on the campus. There are more and more interviews; people want to talk to you about everything. I hope I've learned a lesson, because it's the second or third time it's happened to me. I have tried to eliminate most anything unless it's directly connected with football. Obviously, I've got to do some things with the media; that's part of my responsibility. But there are things which I have gotten out of because I think you can get pulled away from the football, and you can get pulled away from communications with your staff and communications with your players."

The 1988 season:

"I spent a lot of time looking at what we did last year. I felt there were some areas in which we just weren't sound and we tried to do some things here and there to steal a game. We got into gimmicks. We never really got better as players. The more I looked at the films, the more I realized what a lousy job I had done. This spring, we challenged the kids that we were going to try to make everybody a better football player."

Student-athlete's position in the campus community:

"Unfortunately, athletes on a campus today are almost forming a sub-culture. Because of the pressures on them and the demands on their time, they are gathering closer together and don't share some of the experiences they have with other students who are not athletes. Events like National Student-Athlete Day call attention to the fact that studentathletes need more exposure to normal campus life. The chances of being a proathlete, regardless of how good you may think you are in college, are about 10,000 to 1. Athletes should seek associations with people outside of sports to prepare to live a more meaningful life."

On emotion:

"I think there's emotion in any big game. But if you don't have tradition or pride or whatever you might call it, established over a long period of time and reinforced on the practice field daily, emotion will not carry you very far. A team can achieve only a certain level of emotion. After that, they become either crazy people or make stupid mistakes. You have to have a certain poise along with emotion. Emotion by itself won't win for you. But, it's important, especially when it's tempered by poise."

Playing inexperienced athletes:

"I've always had the feeling that in motivating and training people, confidence is the single most important ingredient for success. You are better off playing someone two weeks too late than two minutes too soon. If you play someone too soon and he makes mistakes or has problems, it's difficult to escape public criticism, particularly in a high-profile sport like college football."

Opinion that some think he's the "conscience of college football":

"I don't think that's particularly true. I think maybe just because I have been at it longer than a lot of people and the type of program we run has been sound and solid may have impressed some. Hopefully, we've operated within the rules. Penn State's success has given me a little more visability than some other people, but I don't consider myself the conscience of college football."

Coaching future:

"I gave serious consideration in the offseason to getting out of it (coaching). I said to myself I was either going to get back into it seriously or get out. In the last year, I've spent more time meeting with the staff, reviewing film, getting personally involved in spring practice, getting to know the kids and the other people around the program than I have in some time. I'd like to coach about four to five more years. I like it. I feel good. But, at my age, how can you guarantee you're going to be able to do it. I may get tired or something may come up relating to college football that disturbs me, but, right now, I'm looking forward to a few more seasons. The one thing I don't want to do is stay around too long."

COACHES

TOM BRADLEY

After winning two letters as a defensive back and a member of the special teams for Penn State in 1977 and 1978, Tom Bradley became a full-time assistant coach in 1980. Nicknamed "Scrap," a moniker he earned for his toughness on special teams, Bradley is in charge of the outside linebackers.

In 1986, two of Bradley's outside linebackers — first-team All-American Shane Conlan and East-West selection Don Graham — gave the Lions as strong a group of linebackers as ever assembled at Penn State. Conlan was named the National Football League's 1987 Defensive Rookie-of-the-Year.

Bradley is in his tenth season as a coach at his alma mater, where he also has served as recruiting coordinator in addition to various other coaching positions.

He also has worked extensively in the past with the Penn State special teams. In the 1986 National Championship season, the special teams did not yield a touchdown and Blair Thomas ranked second nationally in kickoff returns, as did the team.

He served as the wide receivers coach in 1987 and two of his players — Michael Alexander and Ray Roundtree — were NFL draft picks.

Bradley, a bachelor, is a 1979 graduate of Penn State with a degree in business. He also holds a master's degree in sports administration from Penn State.

His athletic background includes competition in track and serving as captain of the football and basketball teams at Bishop McCort High School in Johnstown, Pa. His family is filled with accomplished athletes, including his father, Sam, who played basketball at Pittsburgh; brothers Matt and Jim [now an orthopedic surgeon], who played football at Penn State; and sisters, Patty and Cassy, who were outstanding track and field performers at Villanova.

RON DICKERSON

Teaching defensive secondary play is no chore for Ron Dickerson, who became thoroughly familiar with the necessary techniques as a defensive back at Kansas State and with the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League. In his fifth year at Penn State, Dickerson joined the Lions in February of 1985 and has accompanied them to three bowl games, two of them National Championship clashes.

Dickerson served on the Colorado staff for three years as assistant head coach and secondary coach before coming to Penn State.

A native of Coraopolis, Pa., Dickerson was an excellent defensive back for the Wildcats, lettering three years and setting the school interception return yardage record. He played in the East-West Shrine game, the American Bowl and the College All-Star game and was a defensive back for Miami in 1971.

Dickerson began his coaching career at his alma mater as the secondary coach from 1972-75 and then coached at Louisville (1975-77) and Pittsburgh (1977-80) before joining the South Carolina staff in 1981 as assistant athletic director for non-revenue sports. JERRY SANDUSKY

In two decades as a Penn State assistant coach, Jerry Sandusky and exceptional defense have become synonymous. Sandusky's multiple abilities to design defenses, teach strategy and technique, and make game adjustments have played an important role in the Nittany Lions' prosperity.

A 1966 graduate of Penn State, Sandusky joined the staff in 1969, previously coached the linebackers and now serves as the defensive coordinator.

Sandusky has developed seven firstteam All-American linebackers — Jack Ham (1970), Charlie Zapiec (1971), John Skorupan (1972), Ed O'Neil (1973), Greg Buttle (1975), Kurt Allerman (1976) and Shane Conlan (1985-86). His linebackers have gone on to earn success in the National Football League, which has given Penn State the distinction of "Linebacker U."

His defensive game plans have stopped three Heisman Trophy winners, helping Penn State to National Championship victories over Herschel Walker and Georgia in the 1983 Sugar Bowl and Vinny Testaverde and Miami [Fla.] in the 1987 Fiesta Bowl. Penn State also defeated Marcus Allen's Southern California team in the 1982 Fiesta Bowl. Athlon Publications named him the nation's Assistant Coach-of-the-Year for the 1986 season.

Before joining the Penn State staff, Sandusky served as an assistant football, basketball and track coach at Juniata College in the 1967-68 academic year and as offensive line coach at Boston University in 1968.

A three-year letterman at Penn State, he was a starting defensive end in 1964 and 1965 and a key reserve as a sophomore. He received B.S. and M.Ed. degrees in health and physical education in 1966 and 1967, respectively. Sandusky graduated first in his class and served as his college's student marshall at commencement.

Sandusky was a three-sport athlete in football, basketball and baseball at Washington [Pa.] High School. He is married to the former Dorothy Gross of Chattanooga, Tenn., and they have five children — four boys and a girl.

Sandusky is the author of "Developing Linebackers, The Penn State Way." Now in his 13th year at Penn State. Williams has helped develop several National Football League players. Walker Lee Ashley (Kansas City), Bruce Clark (New Orleans), and Matt Millen (Los Angeles Raiders) are among the players coached by Williams, who were in the NFL at the end of the 1988 season.

A native of State College, Pa., and a former center and linebacker at Penn State, Williams was a successful high school coach before joining the staff in 1977. He served as an assistant coach at Bellefonte [Pa.] High School for five seasons [1964-68] before reviving the State College Area High School program in 1969.

In eight seasons at State College, his teams compiled a 65-13 record. That mark included a 36-game winning streak, beginning with the final game of 1970 and running into the middle of the 1974 campaign. State College won the mythical Pennsylvania state title in 1973.

Under Williams' direction, State College became recognized as one of the top programs in the Keystone State with many players earning collegiate grants-inaid. Many of Williams' players, including Larry, Matt and Paul Suhey, played at Penn State.

Williams also was recognized by his peers for his outstanding coaching. He was an assistant coach in the annual Big 33 game in 1973 and served as the head coach of the 1974 Big 33 team.

BOB PHILLIPS

Bob Phillips receives the ultimate compliment this year when one of his former players, tight end Ted Kwalick, is inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. Kwalick, who went on to professional fame with the San Francisco 49ers, played for Phillips at both Montour (Pa.) High School and Penn State.

Now in his 24th year on the Penn State staff, Phillips outranks every Lions' coach with the exception of Joe Paterno, who made Phillips his first appointment when he was promoted to head coach in 1966. Phillips retired from full-time coaching in April, 1987, but continues to work as a volunteer coach, concentrating on the passing game.

"Coach Bob." as he is known to the players, was an outstanding high school coach in western Pennsylvania before joining the Penn State staff. He coached Montour High School to a 92-12-4 record in 12 seasons. His teams were undefeated in 1957, 1958, 1962, 1963, 1964 and 1965.

Phillips' last five Montour teams suffered only one loss and one tie. Montour claimed class B WPIAL titles in 1957 and 1958 and class A WPIAL titles in 1963. and 1964. Two of his top Montour players. Kwalick and quarterback Chuck Burkhart, were Penn State standouts.

Before joining the Montour staff, Phillips coached football and track at Sewickley [Pa.] High School during the 1950-51 school year and served as an assistant coach in football and basketball at Rochester [Pa.] High School in 1951-54.

During Phillips' tenure, he coached Penn State's first two-time All-American, tight end Kwalick, and the Nittany Lions' Heisman Trophy winner, running back

John Cappelletti.

Burkhart was one of several outstanding quarterbacks Phillips developed. John Hufnagel [1972] and Chuck Fusina [1978] both earned first-team All-American honors, while Todd Blackledge [1982] won the Davey O'Brien Award as the nation's top quarterback and was picked in the National Football League draft as the seventh selection in the first round.

A 1943 graduate of Robinson Township High School (now Montour High), Phillips played halfback at Slippery Rock State College. He also played basketball for the Rock, winning a total of eight letters before graduating with a degree in health and physical education in 1950. Phillips was inducted into the Slippery Rock Athletic Hall of Fame in 1987. He earned a M.Ed. in health and physical education from Pittsburgh in 1954.

Nittany Lion Legend

Penn State's athletic symbol, chosen by the student body in 1906, is a mountain lion once said to have roamed the central Pennsylvania mountains.

H.D. "Joe" Mason, a member of the Penn State Class of 1907, conducted a one-man campaign to choose a mascot after seeing the Princeton tiger on a baseball game trip to that New Jersey campus. A student publication sponsored the campaign to choose a mascot and Penn State is believed to be the first college to adopt the lion as a mascot.

Because Penn State is located in the Nittany Valley at the foot of Mount Nittany, the lion was designated as a Nittany Lion. In regional folklore, Nittany [or Nita-Nee] was a valorous Indian princess in whose honor the Great Spirit caused Mount Nittany to be formed. A later namesake, daughter of chief O-Ko-Cho who lived near the mouth of Penn's Creek, fell in love with Malachi Boyer, a trader. The tearful maiden and her lost lover became legend and her name was given to the stately mountain and the athletic teams of Penn State.

Blue & White

Penn State's athletic teams are easily recognized in blue and white uniforms, but those weren't the original school colors.

The Penn State football team was looking for bright colors to wear for the school's first game in 1887, but didn't want orange and red, the most common school colors. Blue and white were the second choice to cerise (a very deep pink) and black.

George Meek of the Class of 1890 had several pink and black blazers made and the color combination was accepted quickly by the students. However, after exposure to the sun for two or three weeks, the once-dazzling uniform colors faded to black and white. Those colors then were changed to blue and white.

Nittany Lion Shrine

Penn State's Nittany Lion shrine was dedicated on Oct. 24, 1942, during Homecomina Weekend.

Animal sculptor Heinz Warneke and stonecutter Joseph Garatti molded a 13-ton solid block of Indiana limestone into the most recognizable symbol of Penn State. The shrine was chosen from six models submitted by Warneke.

The shrine was a gift of the Penn State Class of 1940 and rests in a natural setting of trees near Recreation Building, a site chosen ahead of the library and Old Main [the administration building], because of its accessibility, the setting of the trees and the fact that the sculpture would not be dwarfed by surrounding buildings.

PENN STATE 42, VIRGINIA 14

Sept. 10, Scott Stadium

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — New quarterback Tom Bill took advantage of a couple of first-quarter Virginia turnovers — a fumbled kickoff return and a pass interception — to put 21 points on the board in the opening period and start Penn State on the way to a 42-14 victory over the Cavaliers.

Virginia, celebrating its 100th year of football, hoped to make Penn State its seventh consecutive victim. The Cavaliers ended the 1987 season with five straight victories and defeated William & Mary in their 1988 opener.

Bill, a redshirt junior, directed a 61yard march in six plays the first time he touched the ball. Big gainers in the push were an 18-yard pass to tight end Dave Jakob and a 12-yard run by John Greene. Sam Gash crashed over from the one for the touchdown.

On the ensuing kickoff, Andre Collins popped Virginia returner Tim Finkelston and his fumble was recovered at the Cavalier nine by Darren Perry. Tailback Gary Brown capped the abbreviated drive with a five-yard run, the first of his three touchdowns that evening.

Virginia found more misery on its next possession. Shawn Moore overthrew his receiver on third down and Eddie Johnson intercepted for the Lions at the Virginia 35. Bill completed three passes in an eight-play TD march, including one of five yards to Michael Timpson for the third touchdown of the opening quarter.

A picture two-minute drill just before halftime sent the Lions to the locker room in front by a comfortable 28-7 margin. Making precision use of the clock, Bill needed only 1:20 to move 82 yards in eight plays. Brown darted 19 yards on a draw play to end the drive.

Without Blair Thomas, the Lions used nine different running backs and rushed for 237 yards. Brown had 148 yards in all-purpose running, including 39 rushing, 45 receiving and 65 on kickoff returns.

In his starting bow, Bill was 15-for-22 for 179 yards and two touchdowns and rushed for a dozen yards on three carries. He suffered neither an interception nor a sack.

PENN STATE 23, BOSTON COLLEGE 20

Sept. 17, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Two Nitteny Lions recorded career firsts and they couldn't have come at a better time for a Penn State team struggling in its home opener against fired-up Boston College.

Senior safety Eddie Johnson registered the first punt block of his career, when he rejected Brian Lowe's boot with just under two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter and the score tied, 20-20. The ball rolled out of bounds at the Boston College 27.

Three plays later, junior placement specialist Ray Tarasi kicked the first game-winning field goal of his lifetime and the Lions escaped, 23-20, before a sell-out house of 84,000 that included the 10,000,000th fan to see Penn State play in Beaver Stadium since the stadium was moved to its present site in 1960.

After a 30-yard Tarasi field goal gave the Lions a 3-0 lead following their first possession, Boston College took command with a 37-yard scoring pass from Mark Kamphaus to Marcus Cherry and a 43-yard field goal by Lowe.

The Lions evened matters midway through the second stanza, when tailback Gary Brown, who led the Lions in rushing with 83 yards, ran the draw, pulled out of a couple of tackles, and sprinted 43 yards for the tying touchdown, his fourth of the young season.

Tailback Leroy Thompson accounted for 29 of 50 yards in the next Penn State scoring drive, a 50-yard march in seven plays that ended with Sam Gash's one-yard plunge.

Lowe kicked a 22-yard field goal on the final play of the half to make it 17-13 at intermission.

In the third period, Tarasi's 22-yard field goal pushed the Penn State margin to seven, but Boston College pulled even by moving 72 yards in the fourth quarter, a march that included three completions from Kamphaus to Tom Waddle, the final one of 19 yards for the touchdown.

RUTGERS 21, PENN STATE 16

Sept. 24, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — A furious fourth-quarter comeback by favored Penn State fell three yards short as Rutgers ended 70 years of frustration by knocking off the nationally-ranked Nittany Lions, 21-16, before the 10th largest crowd in Beaver Stadium history.

The Scarlet Knights scored twice in the third quarter on runs of 11 and 57 yards by Mike Botti, who led all rushers with 112 yards on 18 carries. Botti's runs turned a tenuous 10-7 Penn State halftime lead into a 21-10 deficit.

Penn State had secured its narrow edge on a 38-yard touchdown pass from Tom Bill to Dave Daniels with less than a minute remaining in the half. Taking possession near midfield after a Rutgers' punt, Bill moved 54 yards in four plays. He hit a leaping Daniels in the corner of the end zone to send the Lions into the locker room with the lead.

Compounding Penn State's problems following Botti's two third-quarter TDs was an injury to Bill, the Lions' starting quarterback, who was forced to the bench after being sacked late in the third quarter. With backup Lance Lonergan limited by a thumb injury, the Lions inserted freshman Tony Sacca, whose experience was limited to six plays in the opener at Virginia.

Sacca orchestrated a touchdown march of 70 yards in nine plays to bring the Lions within 21-16 after a two-point conversion pass failed. The big-gainer in the drive was Sacca's 18-yard bootleg run. Gary Brown scored the TD on a four-yard dive.

The defense forced a Rutgers' punt on the ensuing series, giving the Lions' a final possession at their own 10-yard line. Hitting passes to Michael Timpson and Brown, Sacca advanced Penn State to the Scarlet 31, where he converted two consecutive fourth-and-11 situations with a 14-yard throw to Timpson and a 15-yard pitch to Brown.

The Lions had four tries from the Rutgers' three with less than a minute to play, but could not punch the game-winner across. Leroy Thompson gained a yard on first down, Brown lost a yard on second, a wide-open David Jakob could not pull down Sacca's tall throw on third down and a fourth-down pass to Timpson was incomplete on Penn State's final play.

PENN STATE 45, TEMPLE 9

Oct. 1, Veterans Stadium

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Tony Sacca, the first true freshman to start at quarter-back in the Joe Paterno era, directed a versatile Penn State offense with poise and maturity as the Nittany Lions bounced back from a loss to Rutgers by pounding Temple, 45-9, before a sellout crowd in Veterans Stadium.

Sacca admitted he was nervous early, but settled down after the Lions got their first points on an 80-yard march in 13 plays that included two key third-down completions for first downs by the freshman. Leroy Thompson banged over from four yards out for the touchdown, the first of his Penn State career.

Penn State's aggressive punt rush paid off on the first play of the second quarter. Andre Collins broke through the protection to block an Owl punt, the third time in as many weeks the Lions had deflected an enemy punt. Willie Thomas picked up the loose ball and went 25 yards for the touchdown.

After a Temple field goal narrowed the gap to 14-3, Sacca found Michael Timpson running behind the secondary on a post pattern and hit him in full stride for a 60-yard touchdown to make it 21-3 at halftime.

Ray Tarasi pushed the margin to 24-3 with a 36-yard field goal at the 7:47 mark of the third quarter. A fumble recovery at the Temple 28 by Quintus McDonald set the table for the fourth Penn State touchdown. Thompson did the honors again from four yards out and it was 31-3.

Sacca tossed his second touchdown pass of the evening on the third play of the fourth quarter. The freshman hit a wide-open Dave Jakob in the end zone on a fourth-and-one play from the Temple four-yard line. Gary Brown closed out the scoring with a 57-yard touchdown scamper as the clock neared the five-minute mark.

PENN STATE 35, CINCINNATI 9

Oct. 8, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Michael Timpson returned Cincinnati's first punt of the game 64 yards for a touchdown to start Penn State on the path to a 35-9 win over the Bearcats and the Nittany Lions' 18th consecutive victory on Homecoming weekend. It was the second punt return touchdown of Timpson's career; he returned one 67 yards here against Bowling Green a year ago.

The combination of Timpson's return and Penn State's punt rush, which had resulted in a blocked kick in each of the previous three weeks, upset the Bearcats' kicking game. A 10-yard Bearcat punt early in the second quarter provided the Lions with the field position to launch a second scoring drive.

Tony Sacca, starting his second game at quarterback, finished the six-play 47-yard march with a 17-yard TD pass to tight end Dave Jakob, who tightroped his way into the end zone before a syndicated Penn State Television Network audience.

On the ensuing series, an interception by Keith Karpinski of a ball tipped by Eddie Johnson put the Lions in business again at the Cincinnati 31. After a pass interference penalty and a one-yard run, Sacca found his tight end again, this time backup Todd Young, with a 15-yard scoring toss to make it 21-0.

Cornerback Willie Thomas, who scored on a blocked punt at Temple, put his name in the scoring column again when he picked off a Glenn Farkas pass and returned it 19 yards for a touchdown to run the Penn State lead to 35-0 five minutes before halftime.

Both Cincinnati scores came as the result of punt blocks. The Bearcats got one Doug Helkowski punt in the second quarter, a ball that rolled through the end zone for a safety, and another in the third quarter, this one recovered by Scott Powers for a touchdown.

SYRACUSE 24, PENN STATE 10

Oct. 15, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Syracuse rode the strong right arm of senior quarterback Todd Philcox to a second straight victory over Penn State, breaking the Nittany Lions' string of eight straight wins over the Orangemen in Beaver Stadium.

Philcox passed for 286 yards and two touchdowns to trigger a 24-10 triumph, the visitors' first at Penn State since 1970. Philcox hit 19-of-32 passes with scoring connections to wide receiver Deval Glover and halfback Robert Drummond before a primetime ESPN Television audience.

Syracuse found it difficult to run against a Penn State defense that came into the game ranked seventh nationally against the rush. The Orangemen averaged just 1.4 yards on 37 running plays with a long gain of 12 yards.

Field goals of 30 and 37 yards by Kevin J. Greene staked Syracuse to an early 6-0 lead. Another Orange scoring threat reached the Penn State nine, but was turned aside when Frank Giannetti forced a fumble and Sherrod Rainge recovered for the Lions.

With just 1:54 remaining in the half, Penn State freshman quarterback Tony Sacca launched a 70-yard scoring drive with an 11-yard run on first down. Sacca hit John Greene for 16 yards and then found Gary Brown for a 42-yard gainer to the Orange one-yard line. Sam Gash went over the pile for the score and Ray Tarasi's extra point gave the Lions a 7-6 halftime lead.

Syracuse got a break on the second play of the second half. Brown fumbled at the Lions' 12 and the Orangemen recovered. Philcox converted the turnover into points with a six-yard TD throw to Glover and passed to Rob Moore for the two-point conversion to make it 14-7.

Penn State answered with an 85-yard march in 12 plays that reached the Orange four-yard line, where Tarasi hit a 21-yard field goal on fourth-and-two. Brown had 35 yards rushing on the drive.

The Orangemen took advantage of superior field position, the result of a Doug Helkowski punt from his end zone, to position themselves for a third Greene field goal, this one of 27 yards in the dying moments of the third quarter.

The Nittany Lions' offensive inconsistency continued in the final period. On their first two possessions, it was three-plays-and-out.

ALABAMA 8, PENN STATE 3

Oct. 22, Legion Field

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — The Alabama defense, led by one-man wrecking crew Derrick Thomas, smothered the Penn State offense and carried the Tide to an 8-3 victory in a game in which neither team scored a touchdown.

Thomas, a 230-pound senior outside linebacker, had eight unassisted tackles, twice dropped Lion runners behind the line of scrimmage, broke up a pair of pass attempts and sacked quarterback Tony Sacca three times, including once for a safety before the CBS-TV cameras. It was the kind of performance expected from Cornelius Bennett, the former Tide standout now starring in the National Football League, who were the same crimson jersey number — 55.

With Thomas disrupting things, the Nittany Lions failed to generate any flow in their offense, which was limited to a season-low of 169 net yards. Another telling statistic for the Nittany Lions was their figure for third down conversions:

a frustrating O-for-14.

Penn State, however, needed just one big play to win it, thanks to a superb effort from its defense, which forced the Tide to settle for a pair of field goals and surrendered just over 300 yards to an Alabama attack that ran 83 plays and had a nearly 10-minute edge in time of possession.

The Lions had a touchdown taken off the board in the second period. Sacca threw a perfect strike to Michael Timpson, who caught the ball in full flight and completed what appeared to be a 68-yard scoring play. Penn State was detected holding on the play, however, and the score was nullified.

Ray Tarasi got the Lions even just before halftime with a 36-yard field goal, his second in as many games. The only scoring in the second half was a 35-yard field goal by Alabama's Philip Doys and Thomas' sack in the end zone for the safety.

Penn State was the victim of poor field position in the second half, starting five of its final nine possessions inside the 20-yard line. The Lions managed only 21 yards of total offense in the final 30 minutes.

WEST VIRGINIA 51, PENN STATE 30

Oct. 29, Mountaineer Field

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — West Virginia reached deep into its bag of big plays and launched four touchdown strikes of 40 yards or more on the way to a record 51-30 victory over Penn State before the largest crowd ever to see a game in Mountaineer Field and a nationwide CBS-TV audience.

The Mountaineers' powder keg of a quarterback, Major Harris, started things off on a frustrating note for the Lions by stutter-stepping through the defense on a 26-yard touchdown run the first time West Virginia touched the ball. Harris also unloaded first-half scoring strikes of 40 yards to Reggie Rembert and 49 yards to Calvin Phillips, while Charlie Baumann added a 24-yard field goal to give West Virginia a quick 24-0 lead.

A three-yard TD run by Sam Gash and a two-point conversion pass from Tony Sacca to David Daniels cut the margin to 24-8, but West Virginia answered with another field goal and two more touchdowns, including a 55-yard run on a draw play by Undra Johnson with just three seconds left in the half to take a 41-8 lead at intermission.

Penn State regrouped in the second half, outgaining the Mountaineers, 253-142, and outscoring them, 22-10.

Reserve quarterback Lance Lonergan came off the bench to direct a Lions' drive of 69 yards in 11 plays, covering the final 12 himself on a keeper. He also threw a two-point conversion pass to Terry Smith.

Another Lonergan to Smith connection for 40 yards produced a second TD in the fourth period. Gary Brown's two-point conversion run cut the score to 44-30 with two minutes still to play. Any hopes of a miracle comeback, however, were dashed by West Virginia tailback Eugene Napoleon, who raced 69 yards to paydirt on the Mountaineers' final possession.

PENN STATE 17, MARYLAND 10

Nov. 5, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — On a day when air traffic would have been grounded or, at the very least, delayed, Lance Lonergan threw a pair of risky passes that brought Penn State a 17-10 victory over Maryland and ended a three-game

Nittany Lion losing streak.

The Lions' 32nd meeting with Maryland, which came into the weekend tied for the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference title chase, was, to be as positive as possible, soggy. The teams were pelted by a steady rain and battled winds of 22 miles-per-hour with gusts up to 34 mph. In the third quarter, the rain fell so hard it was difficult to see the players from the stands or the sidelines.

Lonergan, making the first start of his Penn State career, broke an early 3-3 tie with a TD screen pass to John Greene. The play covered 79 yards and was the Lions' longest pass play in almost two years [since Matt Knizner and Eric Hamilton collaborated on an 82-yard pass against Pittsburgh on Nov. 22, 1986].

Maryland slogged 59 yards through the worst rain of the afternoon to even the issue in the third quarter. Fullback Dennis Spinelli shook off a tackle to negotiate the final three yards and Dan Plocki's kick made it 10-10.

Less than five minutes remained when Penn State launched its decisive drive from its own 26-yard line. Gary Brown gained seven yards on first down and four more on second to give the Lions a first down at the 37. Lonergan dropped back into the pocket and spotted wideout David Daniels free in the Maryland secondary. Daniels hauled in the pass to complete a 45-yard play that gave Penn State a first down at the Terps' 18.

Brown did the finishing work with an eight-yard gain on a draw and a 10-yard scamper around the left side for the winning touchdown. Brown became the first Penn State runner to gain 100 yards in a game all season, finishing with 102 on 17 carries.

There were some uncomfortable moments left, however. Maryland made it to the Lions' 13-yard line in the final two minutes, but three passes and a run produced only one additional yard and Penn State claimed its 24th straight victory over the Terps.

PITTSBURGH 14, PENN STATE 7

Nov. 12, Beaver Stadium

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Pittsburgh tailback Curvin Richards rushed for 159 yards and one touchdown to help the Panthers win their second straight over Penn State, 14-7, before a late-afternoon sellout crowd and a national television audience on ESPN. It was the first time Pittsburgh managed back-to-back wins in the rivalry since 1979-80.

A freshman, Richards carried 31 times and averaged 5.1 yards per attempt. It was the best rushing performance against the Penn State defense since another Panther running back, Craig Heyward, gained 162 yards in the 1987 meeting.

Pittsburgh's aggressive defense got the first points of the game. After an unproductive series on its first possession, Pittsburgh punted and the ball was downed at the Penn State three-yard line.

Two John Greene runs gained two yards and, on third down, quarterback Lance Lonergan retreated into his end zone to pass. Pittsburgh linebacker Curtis Bray arrived at the moment Lonergan completed his dropback and forced him to illegally ground the ball in the end zone. The penalty produced a safety for Pittsburgh and a 2-0 lead.

Penn State shook off two first-quarter field goal misfires, one wide right and the other blocked, to negotiate 60 yards in nine plays for a go-ahead touchdown. Lonergan teamed with wideout Dave Daniels on a 38-yard pass play and Leroy Thompson had a 16-yard run to account for most of the real estate in the march. Sam Gash went over the stack from the one for his seventh touchdown of the season and the PAT by Henry Adkins put the Lions ahead, 7-2.

Guarterback Darnell Dickerson took Pittsburgh 80 yards in 10 plays to regain the initiative. He personally accounted for 60 yards on the drive, picking up 26 on two pass completions and rushing for 34, including a big 27-yard run. Pichards scored from the six for Pittsburgh's only TD of the afternoon. A two-point conversion try failed, but Pittsburgh did tack on a field goal before intermission to lead 11-7 at the half.

The only scoring of the second half was a 29-yard field goal by Pittsburgh's Scott Kaplan at 5:29 of the third quarter.

NOTRE DAME 21, PENN STATE 3

Nov. 19, Notre Dame Stadium

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Top-ranked Notre Dame, led by talented option quarterback Tony Rice, kept its perfect record intact by defeating Penn State, 21-3, and sending the Lions to their first losing season since 1938.

Rice personally accounted for 275 of Notre Dame's 502 offensive yards against the Nittany Lions, who finished the season with five wins in eleven outings as they dropped five of their final six games.

After an opening Penn State drive stalled at the Irish 45, Notre Dame moved 87 yards in 12 plays to take a lead it never surrendered. Rice rolled around left end from two yards out for the score. The long-gainer in the march was a 31-yard toss from Rice to Ricky Watters, who was finally hauled down at the Penn State 17.

The Nittany Lions answered Notre Dame's initiative by moving quickly to the Irish 17-yard line. A 20-yard Lance Lonergan to Michael Timpson pass play and a 23-yard run by Sam Gash helped position the ball deep in Notre Dame territory. A third-down throw intended for Gash, however, was batted into the air and intercepted by Jeff Alm.

Rice and Watters got Notre Dame rolling on a second touchdown drive, making connections on a 27-yard pass play that carried inside the Penn State 35. Three plays later, tailback Mark Green dashed 22 yards to put the Irish up 14-0 in the nationally televised [CBS] contest.

Kicker Eric Etze lifted the Lions' hopes on the final play of the half. The senior nailed a 52-yard field goal to cut the Irish advantage to eleven points. It was the first three-pointer of 50 or more yards for Penn State since Massimo Manca hit a 50-yard effort against Notre Dame in 1985.

Notre Dame's defense, however, did not let the Lions build on the momentum of Etze's long-distance score. The Irish held Penn State to 71 yards of total offense and only four first downs over the final 30 minutes.

The Irish hung up a final TD on a 67yard pass play from Rice to Raghib Ismail, who caught the ball at the Penn State 20 and pulled away from a tackle to take it all the way.

Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy

Penn State won an unprecedented 18th Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy in 1986 as Eastern collegiate football's top team.

In 1936, the Lambert brothers, Victor and Henry, of the distinguished New York jewelry house that bears their name, established a memorial to their father, August. They instituted a trophy to be awarded to the outstanding Division I college football team in the East. In 1957, the Lambert Cup was instituted for Division II teams and, in 1966, the Lambert Bowl was added for Division III schools.

Thirteen schools have been awarded the Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy, but no two schools combined can claim as many championships as Penn State. Army has won seven Lambert-Meadowlands trophies; Pittsburgh, six; Syracuse, five; Boston College and Navy, four; Dartmouth and Princeton, two; and Carnegie Tech, Cornell, Fordham and West Virginia, one each. Navy and Yale also shared the title in 1960.

1988 CITRUS

ORLANDO, Fla. — Clemson successfully blended the expected with the unexpected to concoct a 35-10 conquest of the Penn State Nittany Lions in the Florida Citrus Bowl. It was the first meeting ever between the two teams.

Coach Danny Ford's Tigers rushed for 285 yards on 54 carries, a statistic hardly surprising based on Clemson's No. 15 rating in NCAA rushing offense. Quarterback Danny Williams, however, threw for an uncharacteristic 214 yards — the Tigers' second-best passing performance of the season. The balanced combination produced 499 total yards and the Atlantic Coast Conference champion's 10th victory in a dozen outings.

The loss left the Nittany Lions, who were making their first Citrus Bowl appearance, at 8-4. It was Penn State's 25th bowl appearance and only the ninth loss in post-season play (against 15 victories and two ties].

Fullback Tracy Johnson ran for a Citrus Bowl record three touchdowns and teammate Terry Allen collected a game-high 105 rushing yards as the principals of the Tigers' ground attack. Williams hit on 15-of-24 passes, including seven to wideout Keith Jennings, who wound up with 110 yards receiving.

The Nittany Lions were without leading rusher and receiver Blair Thomas, sidelined by a knee injury suffered in an informal practice prior to the game. Freshmen Leroy Thompson and Gary Brown posted 106 yards from the tailback position in Thomas' absence. Thompson, who rushed for 55 yards and added 146 more on pass receptions [19] and kickoff returns [127], was voted the Lions' offensive MVP with 201 all-purpose yards.

Penn State's only touchdown came on a picture-perfect 39-yard pass from Matt Knizner to Mike Alexander that briefly tied the issue at 7-7. The Lions could never gain the lead and had to settle for a 27-yard field goal by Eric Etze as their only other score.

Senior linebacker Trey Bauer, who had six stops, three tackles for losses and a quarterback sack, was the press box choice as Penn State defensive MVP.

George Hoskins

George "Doc" Hoskins served as Penn State's first head coach [1892-95], while also a player for the Nittany Lions. A three-year letterman at center, he was the athletic trainer at Vermont before being appointed Penn State's first director of physical training and first instructor of physical education. His duties included coaching the football team, where he compiled a 17-4-4 record. He later was head coach at Bucknell and served as a trainer during baseball spring training with the Cincinnati Reds for 23 years. He died in 1957 in Cincinnati.

Samuel Newton

Dr. Samuel Newton was Penn State's second head coach [1896-98] and posted a 12-14 record, while also serving as the director of physical training. A native of Yarmouth, Maine, and a graduate of Williams College and the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, he was a physician and assistant coach at Pennsylvania, when named to the Penn State post. He later compiled a record of 57-28-2 at Lafayette and Lehigh. He ended his coaching career after the 1905 season at Lehigh to devote full time to his medical practice.

Sam Boyle

Sam Boyle coached Penn State for just one season (1899), but led the Nittany Lions to a 6-0 victory at Army to highlight a 4-6-1 campaign. It would be 60 years before Penn State won again at West Point. A three-year letterman at Pennsylvania, he coached at Dickinson the following season [1900], which included an 18-0 win over Penn State.

Pop Golden

William Nelson "Pop" Golden compiled a 16-12-1 record in three seasons [1900-02], before being named Penn State's first athletic director. A Chicago native, he remained on the football staff as an assistant coach until 1909 and served as a recruiter for two years. He was the athletic trainer at Purdue and was in charge of physical education at YMCAs in Syracuse, N.Y., and Johnstown and Williamsport, Pa., before taking the Penn State position. He died in 1949 at the age of 81 in Pittsburgh after enjoying a successful insurance career.

Dan Reed

Dan Reed led Penn State to a 5-3 record in his only season [1903], which included wins over Pittsburgh [59-0] and Navy [17-0]. Reed was a two-year letterman for the legendary Pop Warner at Cornell and later served as an assistant coach [1910-11] for the Big Red. Reed, who also was on the track and wrestling teams at Cornell, turned to politics after his coaching career and was elected a Congressman, where he served on the Ways and Means Committee. He died in 1959.

Tom Fennell

Tom Fennell was hired as Penn State's first full-time head coach in 1904 and compiled a 33-17-1 record in five seasons [1904-08]. He was hired exclusively to coach football and held no additional duties. A graduate of Cornell, where he was a standout in football, Fennell gave up the Penn State job after the 1908 season. He returned to law practice in Elmira, N.Y., and went on to become a judge.

He capped his senior year at Pennsylvania the previous season by serving as captain and being named to the Walter Camp All-America team at fullback. He guided Penn State to its first unbeaten season [5-0-2] since 1894 in its initial year of play at Beaver Field. He was lured to Missouri the next fall [1910], but returned to lead the Nittany Lions to undefeated seasons in 1911 and 1912. He ended his Penn State career after the 1914 season with a record of 28-9-4.

Jack Hollenback

Jack Hollenback coached Penn State for one season [1910], when his brother, Bill, took the head position at Missouri. The Nittany Lions were 5-2-1 in a season which saw admission charged for the first time, when Penn State met Bucknell on Nov. 12 at Beaver Field. A Pennsylvania graduate in dentistry, Hollenback left coaching and opened a practice in Philipsburg, Pa., when his brother returned to Penn State after the 1910 season. He later joined his brother in the coal brokerage business in Philadelphia. Hollenback was 75 when he died in 1959.

His collegiate coaching experience included head jobs at Oregon [1906, 1913-17], where his team defeated Pennsylvania, 14-0, in the 1917 Rose Bowl; and Arkansas [1908-12). His career also included managing the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club [1917-19]. Bezdek, who died in 1952. was named to the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1954 and the Helms Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1960.

He entered Penn State as a student in 1914 and became one of only five players in school history to letter five vears. He served as captain of the team as a senior and was named to the 1919 Walter Camp All-American team. He also lettered in baseball, boxing and wrestling. Following two years of professional football with the Canton Bulldogs, he began his coaching career, which included stops at West Virginia Weslevan and Washington University in St. Louis. He joined the Penn State staff in 1928 as an assistant coach. Higgins, a native of Corning, N.Y., who died in 1969, was named to the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1954.

Joe Paterno Call-In Show

For the second straight season, The Penn State Sports Network will produce and syndicate the weekly Joe Paterno Call-In Show.

Heard on Thursday nights from 6:06 to 7 p.m. during the football season, the live program will air on approximately 45 radio stations throughout Pennsylvania.

The show will be hosted by Fran Fisher, former "Voice of the Nittany Lions."

Penn State Sports Network

Approximately 70 radio stations throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and other portions of the Northeast will carry Penn State football this fall on The Penn State Sports Network.

The Penn State Sports Network is wholly owned and operated by Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics; the coordinator and executive producer is Frank Giardina.

Serving as the play-by-play announcer for Penn State football this fall will be John Sanders, the sports director of KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh. Sanders also is one of the radio and television play-by-play voices of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Returning as color analyst is George Paterno. The brother of the Nittany Lions' head coach, George Paterno is a veteran coach himself, having worked on the collegiate level for 12 years at Michigan State and the United States Merchant Marine Academy.

Also working on the radio broadcasts will be Steve Jones [scoreboard reports], Greg Silver [director] and Kerry Trout [engineer].

Asterisk indicates those stations also carrying The Joe Paterno Call-In Show:

Penn State vs. Heisman Trophy Winners

Penn State has played against 11 Heisman Trophy winners — Pete Dawkins (Army), Ernie Davis (Syracuse), Gary Beban (UCLA), Archie Griffin (Ohio State), Tony Dorsett (Pittsburgh), Marcus Allen (Southern Cal), Herschel Walker (Georgia), Mike Rozier (Nebraska), Doug Flutie (Boston College), Vinny Testaverde (Miami, Fla.) and Tim Brown (Notre Dame).

Four—Griffin (he won as a junior the year before), Allen, Walker and Testaverde already had won the award from the Downtown Athletic Club, while the other seven were candidates.

Here follows a summary of how the Heisman Trophy winners have fared against Penn State.

1958: Army 26, Penn State O. Dawkins rushed 12 times for 73 yards and a touchdown, threw two incomplete passes, caught two passes for 91 yards and returned three punts for 14 yards.

1961: Penn State 14, Syracuse 0. Davis rushed 13 times for 35 yards.

1967: UCLA 17, Penn State 15. Beban completed 10-of-16 passes for 108 yards and one touchdown, while rushing 19 times for one yard.

1975: Ohio State 17, Penn State 9. Griffin carried 24 times for 128 yards.

1976: Pittsburgh 24, Penn State 7. Dorsett gained 224 yards and scored twice on 38 carries.

1981: Penn State 26, Southern California 10 in the 1982 Fiesta Bowl. Allen rushed 30 times for 85 yards and caught five passes for 39 yards (Penn State's Curt Warner outplayed Allen, rushing 26 times for 145 yards and two scores and catching three passes for 10 yards).

1982: Penn State 27, Georgia 23 in the 1983 Sugar Bowl. Walker rushed 28 times for 103 yards and scored one TD [again Warner outperformed the Heisman Trophy winner, carrying 18 times for 117 yards and two TDs and catching a pair of passes for 23 yards].

1983: Nebraska 44, Penn State 6. Rozier carried 16 times for 71 yards and threw a pass interception.

1984: Penn State 37, Boston College 30. Flutie completed 29-of-53 passes for 447 yards, was intercepted twice and threw for one TD. He also carried 10 times for 26 yards.

1986: Penn State 14, Miami [Fla.] 10 in the 1987 Sunkist Fiesta Bowl. Testaverde was intercepted a season-high five times, with pass thefts setting up the winning touchdown and sealing the Lions' victory. For the first time that season, the Miami quarterback did not throw a touchdown pass. He did complete 26-of-50 passes for 285 yards. The Lions sacked him four times for 26 yards in losses.

1987: Penn State 21, Notre Dame 20. Penn State limited Brown to four receptions for 80 yards, one carry for nine yards and one incomplete pass attempt.

Don Graham celebrates after sacking Heisman Trophy-winner Vinny Testaverde in the 1987 Fiesta Bowl.

Non-Losing Seasons

After an NCAA record 49 consecutive non-losing seasons, the 1988 Nittany Lions slipped under .500, the first time since 1938 that Penn State failed to achieve either a winning or a break-even record.

During their record run from 1939-87, the Nittany Lions rolled up 26 straight winning seasons [1939 through 1964], two .500 seasons [1965 and 1966] and 21 more winning seasons [1967-87].

Over the 49-year span, Penn State accumulated 358 regular-season victories against 106 defeats and nine ties. The Lions posted unbeaten records in 1947, 1968, 1969, 1973, 1978 and 1986; won Eastern championships (Lambert Trophy] in 1947, 1961, 1962, 1964, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1977, 1978, 1981, 1982, 1985 and 1986 and have been invited to major bowl games following 24 campaigns - 1947, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1985, 1986 and 1987. Penn State has played in 25 bowl games, counting a 1923 Rose Bowl appearance against Southern California.

Holuba Hall

Spacious Holuba Hall provides an inclement weather home for the Penn State football team. The massive building, first used during the 1986 season, but formally dedicated on April 26, 1987, is named in honor of the late Stanley Holuba, Sr., a 1928 biochemistry graduate, who was a boxing standout at Penn State.

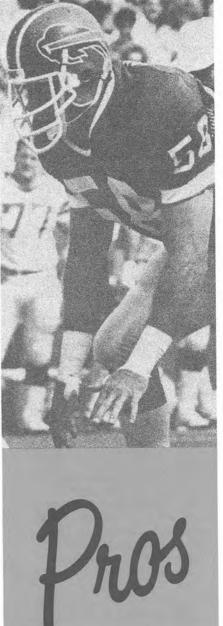

Holuba's sons — Robert, a Penn State graduate, who played football for three seasons and was a National Collegiate Athletic Association postgraduate scholarship winner following his senior campaign, and Stanley, a Gettysburg College graduate — donated $1 million to Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics. The Holubas own and operate the Stanson Corporation of Teaneck, N.J.

Located along University Drive, opposite the East Area locker room and near the Greenberg Indoor Sports Complex, Holuba Hall is the largest preengineered metal building ever made in the United States. The 118,000-squarefoot area, which has a 75-foot ceiling, consists of an 80x120-yard Astroturf field and a track with four 120-yard, 110-meter sprint lanes.

In addition to two adjacent 60-yard football fields, including end zones, Holuba Hall can be configured to permit regulation lacrosse and soccer games. It has been used by a number of Penn State athletic teams including football, baseball, men's and women's lacrosse, field hockey, soccer, softball, men's and women's track, and men's and women's golf.

Penn State athletic director Jim Tarman described Holuba Hall as "the equal of any indoor facility we have seen anywhere in the nation" at the time the project was completed in 1987.

Stadium

Beaver Stadium

Penn State football has attracted more than 10-million fans to Beaver Stadium since the home of the Nittany Lions was moved from the west to the east side of campus in 1960. In that time, the stadium has nearly doubled in size to accommodate the capacity crowds which converge on Penn State for each home game.

The last major expansion in 1981 raised the seating capacity to 83,770. Lights were added in 1984 and entry ramps at the four corners in 1985. Construction of walkways at the top of each end zone in 1985 caused a reduction in capacity to 83,370.

Beaver Stadium became the home for Penn State football in 1960. Originally a horseshoe configuration seating 46,284, it now towers 110 rows on the east side, 100 rows on the west and 60 in each end zone.

Beaver Stadium was dedicated on Sept. 17, 1960, when Penn State defeated Boston University, 20-0. Lion halfback Eddie Caye scored the stadium's first touchdown at 10:45 of the first quarter.

Additions of over 2,000 seats in 1969 and more than 9,000 in 1974 raised the capacity to 57,536. Expanded bleachers in the south end zone in 1976 increased seating to 60,203.

A major expansion during the winter, spring and summer of 1978, added more than 16,000 seats, bringing the capacity to 76,639. The stadium was cut into sections, raised eight feet by hydraulic jacks and precast concrete seating forms inserted within the inner circle of the stadium, where the running track had previously existed.

Penn State's first permanent home for football was Beaver Field, located between the present-day Osmond and Frear laboratories in center campus. Initially, games were played on the lawn of Old Main.

The first game at Beaver Field was played on Nov. 6, 1893, against Western University of Pittsburgh (which became the University of Pittsburgh in 1908). The game, won 32-0 by Penn State, was delayed two days because of bad weather and played on a Monday afternoon. The 500-capacity grandstand featured an overhanging roof and three flagpoles.

New Beaver Field, located on the current site of the Kern Graduate Center adjacent to Rec Hall, was ppened in 1909 as the Nittany Lions defeated Grove City, 31-0. The area also contained facilities for baseball, lacrosse, soccer and track.

New Beaver Field was the Nittany Lions' home through the 1959 season, after which the 30,000-seat stadium was dismantled and moved in 700 pieces one mile to the east side of campus. The pieces were reassembled with an additional 16,000 new seats to form Beaver Stadium.

The stadium is named in honor of James A. Beaver. A lawyer in nearby Bellefonte at the outbreak of the Civil War, he enlisted as a second lieutenant and rose to the rank of brigadier general upon his discharge in 1864. Beaver, who died in 1914, later served as a superior court judge, governor of Pennsylvania and president of the University's Board of Trustees. He is credited with being among the most influential leaders in the development of the University at the turn of the century.

Penn State

On February 22, 1855, Governor James Pollock signed the charter incorporating the institution that would become Penn State. He could not have foreseen that he was creating what would become one of America's largest and most distinguished universities.

Located in the fertile Nittany Valley in the heart of central Pennsylvania, Penn State was initially a college of agricultural science, which awarded the nation's first baccalaureate degrees in that subject in

It broadened its mission after Congress passed the Morrill Land Grant Act in 1862. The Morrill Act enabled each state to sell federal lands and use the proceeds to endow one or more colleges or universities. These schools had to agree to offer instruction in agriculture, engineering, and other utilitarian subjects at a cost that was affordable to people of average means. Pennsylvania's General Assembly in 1863 designated Penn State the Commonwealth's sole land-grant institution.

Teaching has remained central to the University's mission. Since the 1930's, Penn State has been Pennsylvania's largest source of undergraduate degrees. In 1988, it offered studies in about 160 baccalaureate and 130 graduate fields and granted more than 11,000 degrees. Testimony to the caliber of instruction can be found in Richard Moll's recent book, The Public Ivys (Viking, 1985), wherein Penn State is one of 17 public institutions cited as attractive alternatives to Ivy League schools for academic quality and ambience.

Even before the University admitted its first students in 1859, its faculty members already were engaged in research. Professor of Horticulture William Waring's simple experiments with fruit trees in 1857 have evolved into a comprehensive research program encompassing such diverse fields as artificial hearts, orbiting X-ray telescopes, and Latin American politics. Penn State perenially ranks among the top 20 American universities in total research and development spending, with expenditures exceeding $195 million in 1987-88.

The third element of Penn State's mission, public service, is derived largely from its land-grant obligation to promote the general welfare. Penn State's first president, Evan Pugh, set the standard for public service when the Commonwealth commissioned him to conduct chemical analyses of commercial fertilizers so that farmers would know what they were buying. This same ideal guides today's cooperative extension service and numerous other public service offerings of the University.

"The common threads running throughout Penn State's teaching, research, and public service missions are a commitment to excellence and to the opportunities provided by public higher education," University President Bryce Jordan has said. "These are the hallmarks that will carry us into the next decade and into the next century."

PENNSTATE

Dr. Bryce Jordan President

Bryce Jordan, now serving his seventh year as Penn State president, continues to build the national reputation of the University on a foundation of academic quality.

Initiatives throughout the University are moving Penn State forward among the ranks of leading universities in the nation.

For instance, the first major fundraising campaign in University history is now well past its original goal of $200 million and on its way toward a revised goal of $300 million. Endowed faculty chairs, professorships and fellowships are helping to attract and retain some of the brightest faculty in the nation to Penn State.

With the help of strategic planning, many of the University's strengths are being enhanced with additional support, and with new units such as the School of Communications and the College of Health and Human Development.

The King of Prussia graduate center occupies new facilities in Great Valley, where Penn State is taking educational opportunities into the heart of a major corporate park near Philadelphia.

Economic development initiatives by Penn State promise new jobs, exciting research ventures, improved facilities for faculty and significant contributions to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Research levels at Penn State have reached new highs in each of the past few years, with the University achieving significant rankings in many areas. The University ranked 17th nationally in fiscal 1987 in federal expenditures for academic research in science and engineering with $132.1 million.

Penn State ranked 5th nationally among universities, colleges and other non-profit organizations in defense contracts ($46.6 million) in fiscal 1987-88. And in the area of research and development expenditures supported by industrial sources, Penn State ranked third among schools which received support in fiscal 1987 with a total of $20.1 million in contracts.

This is a time of achievement for Penn State.

Applications to the university have never been higher in its history. And those who have attended Penn State have not forgotten their alma mater. The Alumni Association is the second largest in the country, and determined to become No. 1 before long.

Bryce Jordan is leading these efforts. President Jordan was born Sept. 22, 1924, in Clovis, New Mexico, and raised in Abilene, Texas. He holds bachelor and master of music degrees from the University of Texas at Austin, and his Ph.D. in historical musicology, with a minor in comparative literature, from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Prior to coming to Penn State, he was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs of the University of Texas System and president at the University of Texas at Dallas.

He and his wife, the former Jonelle Thornberry, have two children: Julia, 30, and Chris, 29. Both are graduates of the University of Texas at Austin.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

James I. Tarman

Jim Tarman was named Director of Athletics at Penn State on March 1. 1982, succeeding Joe Paterno, who had previously held the combined positions of Head Football Coach and Athletic Director.

Tarman is in his 32nd year at Penn State, having joined the athletic staff in 1958 as Sports Publicity Director and serving in that capacity for 12 years. He was named to the College Sports Information Directors Hall of Fame in 1970.

He was appointed Assistant to the Athletic Director in 1970 and in 1973 was promoted to Associate Athletic Director with primary responsibilities in the areas of public affairs, development, fundraising, and alumni and public relations.

When Coach Paterno was named Director of Athletics in 1980, Tarman's responsibilities were expanded to cover the entire policy and administrative scope of Penn State's athletic program.

Before coming to Penn State in 1958, Tarman was Assistant Public Information Director and Sports Information Director at Princeton University. Prior to his post at Princeton, Tarman was Public Relations Director at Gettysburg College for four years. He was on the staff of the Harrisburg [Pa.] Patriot-News from June, 1952, until he joined the Gettysburg staff a year later.

He is a member of the National Football Foundation and Football Hall of Fame Honors Court, a member of the Hall of Fame Screening Committee, a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Special Events Committee, NCAA Post-Season Bowl Committee, and a past member of the NCAA Public Relations Committee Tarman also serves as President of the College Independents Football Officiating Association, a group composed of Penn State and nine other independent teams. In addition, the Penn State AD is on the executive committee of the Division 1-A Athletic Directors Association, representing Independent schools.

He also is a member of the Intercollegiate Athletics committee of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. Tarman was co-host with Coach Paterno of "TV Quarterbacks," then the University's state-wide football television program, from 1967 through 1982, and, from 1971 through 1979 he served as color announcer on the Penn State Football Radio Network

A native of York, Pa., he is a 1952 graduate of Gettysburg College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, was graduated with honors in history and social studies, was named to the Gettysburg Honor Society, and to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is a member of the Gettysburg College Board of Trustees.

His experience includes Army service from 1946 to 1948, with most of that time with the military government team

Tarman is married to the former Louise Catalano, Gettysburg '56, of Springfield, Pa., and they have two sons, James Jr., Penn State '82, and Jeffrey, Penn State '85.
